Fliers Arrive in Dublin on First Leg of Long Hop Westward Over Yet Undeclared Ocean.

DEPARTURE IS SET EARLY WEDNESDAY

Experts Fear One Motor Insufficient To Carry Plane Over Ocean in Face of Hard Winds.

Dublin, March 26.—(United News.) Three German aviators are awaiting here tonight to start, probably at dawn Wednesday, a flight across the Atlantic to the Mitchell field, N. Y., or heaven.

They arrived at Baldonnel flying field, outside Dublin, at 4:30 p. m. today after an 800-mile flight from Templehof field, Berlin, whence they took off at 8:08 a. m., with only three people to watch them.

Herman Koehl, Arthur Spindler, and Baron von Huenefeld are the fliers. Koehl and von Huenefeld are veterans of a trans-Atlantic attempt last summer, when a gale that almost kept their plane stationary in the air forced them to turn back from the western Irish coast. Their plane is the one they used then—the Junkers monoplane, Bremen.

Koehl is a veteran pilot. He is married. Spindler, 37, was a sergeant major in Koehl's aerial bombing squadron in the world war. He has a wife and two children. Von Huenefeld is a bachelor with an aged mother. He is a close friend of the former crown prince.

In taking off from Berlin on the first leg of their trans-Atlantic flight, all three men knew they were flying as nearly into the face of death as a man will could without contemplating deliberate suicide.

Last summer four planes crossed the north Atlantic, all eastward. Others turned back; two went down at sea. Six planes started the westward flight and none made it. Three were driven back by storms; two disappeared without trace.

Two More Join List.

This season Mrs. Frances Grayson's Dawn and the Endeavour of Captain W. R. Hinchcliffe and the honorable Elsie Mackay have been the only starters, the first flying to Newfoundland ready for the eastward flight; the second starting out from England to fly westward. Neither has been heard from.

Experts say the westward flight is almost impossible at the present stage of airplane development. Strong winds, blowing almost always directly eastward, add to a woolly fog that caused Lindbergh most of his trouble.

But the three Germans seem undiminished. When they started from Templehof, von Huenefeld said: "We are going to Mitchell field or heaven."

The plane is a land one. It has no rubber boat or other appliances to permit its crew to remain afloat if it.

DRIVER IN AUTO ACCIDENT GIVEN TWO YEARS' TERM

Barney Craft, 22, of a Lyons avenue address, Monday afternoon pleaded guilty to charges of misdemeanors and assault with reckless disregard for human life, receiving a two-year chain gang sentence from Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court.

Craft was accused of not stopping after the automobile he was driving collided with another and injured three occupants of the latter machine during last September.

The three victims were H. L. Davis, of 425 Spring street; Mrs. W. S. Irwin and Mrs. J. A. McDonald.

SMITH FLAYS NYE AGAIN FOR ATTACK ON SENATE FLOOR

Apology Due Instead of New Tirade in Probe, Executive Writes After His Denial Is Accepted.

Albany, N. Y., March 26.—(United News.)—Governor Alfred E. Smith wrote his second letter today to Senator Gerald P. Nye, once more taking Nye to task for bringing his name into the investigation of the Teapot Dome oil scandals.

Smith charges that Nye once accepted Smith's denial of any connection with the "tainted" oil money, and then altered his position.

"It is an insult to the public intelligence for you to suggest that the proper purpose of a senate committee, it is necessary for me to submit without resentment to a false and unjust statement from you," Governor Smith wrote.

Letter in Full.

Smith's letter in full follows: "Dear Senator Nye:

"I have read the letter in which you attempt to cover up your unwarranted conduct in making an admittedly baseless charge against me on the floor of the senate. When my letter of protest was first read by you, you made the following statement as quoted in the United News dispatches:

"Governor Alfred E. Smith's denial of receiving any campaign contributions from Harry E. Sinclair must be accepted as disproving any charge which has been made. It is a good, flat statement that anyone ought to be able to accept as final. Knowing Smith we must accept this statement as disproving any charge which has been made that he was the recipient of any contributions from Mr. Sinclair."

Changes His Stand.

"You there showed a proper intention to right a wrong committed by you. Apparently something has happened to turn you aside from this impulse and you now have the audacity to charge that because I re-

Success of Talley and Moore Leads To Formation of Association To Encourage Others.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Smashing successes scored in grand opera in the last two years by Marion Talley, Kansas City girl, and Grace Moore, a charming citizen of Jellison, Tenn., both of whom will sing in Atlanta with the Metropolitan Opera company during its annual engagement here, April 23 to 28, will lead to the formation of an association seeking to encourage many other American girls in their ambitions to become great singers, it was learned in the dispatches received in Atlanta Monday.

Several southern girls, possibly some from Georgia or Alabama, will be included in a group of 100 girls who will be sent to 26 European opera houses, where they can receive finished training as singers, according to the proposed plan of the International Association of American Girls.

Martha Hipp, 5, and J. E. Franklin, 3, Back Home Once More.

A day of wild adventure for two tiny tots was brought to a close Monday afternoon when frantic parents finally found the wanderers in the hands of police officers who were acting as guardians.

Martha Hipp, 5, and J. E. Franklin, 3, the infant adventurers, were taken in tow when Captain Grover C. Cain saw them looking into a downtown shop window, apparently lost. At the police station they were questioned, but could give no clue to the location of their home.

While police conducted a search for the parents, the children were lodged in a home for babies on Crew street, where they were found by relatives who had appealed to police in their effort to locate the lost children.

Other than to state that the parents and children were from out of the city, the home on Crew street would not give the names of the parents nor their home.

Crypt, Carved in Stone, Receives Gangland Czar, as Princely Panoply Marks Funeral Cortege.

$40,000 IN FLOWERS PILED ON TOMB

Thousands Drawn From Underworld and Politics Make Grandest Burial in Chicago History.

Chicago, March 26.—(United News.)—"Diamond Joe" Esposito slept tonight amid a heavy perfume of roses and lilies, at peace with the world.

The extreme price he paid for peace—the price that many other leaders of his kind have paid—was exacted last Wednesday night when he was killed in front of his home by a volley of shotgun and revolver bullets fired by unknown assassins.

Power in Politics.

Esposito was a power in politics, a leader among the 400,000 Chicago Italians and a close associate of beer barons, alky cooks, bootleggers and other rulers of the underworld.

Today all these classes mingled for the same purpose—to pay homage to "Diamond Joe." Braving a drenching rain which later turned into a blizzard to dull the splendor of a magnificently-planned funeral, they came and paid silent tribute to the man who rose from a poor immigrant to prominence, only to pay the toll of death for his life's work.

Side by Side.

They stood side by side, Italians, humble and wealthy, leaders in civic and state political life; habitués of the underworld, and thousands of curious to look on in silence as the casket was borne to "Joe's" final resting place.

At the Holy Family church, where the services were held, 10,000 persons jammed the structure. Overflowing crowds massed in the street unable to reach inside and stood in a drenching rain to get a glimpse of the $10,000 silver and bronze casket which bore the body of Esposito.

Denies Is Present.

United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, of Illinois, for whom Esposito lent his power for 20 years in the twenty-fifth ward, came from Washington to attend the funeral rites. Other political leaders, including four Chicago judges, Thomas Olsen, Charles McKinley, Francis Allegretti and William Seltzer, and Senator Thomas Curran, attended.

Political workers from the twenty-fifth ward, which formerly was known as the "bloody nineteenth," wearing black silk memorial badges, mingled with large numbers among the mourners.

High Mass Sung.

A requiem high mass was sung. Father William Murphy extolled the philanthropic virtues of the fallen leader among his people and the casket was borne to the hearse as squads of police fought back with difficulty the crowd that surged towards the church entrance.

Mrs. Esposito, who up to this moment had held up bravely, almost collapsed as she was led through the crowd from the church, assisted by two men.

The funeral cortege, more than a half mile long, proceeded slowly through a heavy rain which turned into sleet and forced abandonment of part of the elaborate plans for the funeral.

Storm Halts Planes.

Airplanes were to have flown overhead to Mount Carmel cemetery, dropping flowers along the path of the procession but the storm was too severe to attempt carrying out this plan.

Twenty-five automobiles filled with floral designs, the total value of which was estimated at $40,000, led the cortege.

DETECTIVE TURNS ON CHIEF TO BARE NEGRO'S SLAYING

Miami Officer Swears Quigg Ordered Him To Take Prisoner for "Car Ride in Country."

Chicago, March 26.—(United News.)—Three police officers accused with Chief H. Leslie Quigg of the murder of a negro prisoner, killed two and a half years ago, may be used as defense witnesses tomorrow when hearing on Quigg's application for habeas corpus is continued.

J. Walter Kehoe, chief of defense counsel, announced tonight after the hearing recessed that he would want them in court tomorrow.

Graphic pictures of alleged collusion between the chief and his officers to mistreat and shoot to death the prisoner were drawn today by a former city detective.

Legality Challenged.

Quigg has challenged the legality of the grand jury which returned indictments charging him and three other officers with slaying E. Kier, a negro bellboy. Meanwhile he seeks his liberty on a habeas corpus writ.

W. M. Beecher, whose testimony three weeks ago first connected Quigg with the slaying, related details of the shooting. He said he, Lieutenant M. A. Tibbitts and Detectives John C. Callahan and Tom Narworth, the latter three of whom are under indictment, took Kier away from the police station. He declared Narworth did the shooting, the first shot going wild and wounding Tibbitts.

Beecher said when Narworth "jerked the negro out of the car and drove a pistol" he took out his own revolver because he feared Narworth would try to "settle" an old score with me with a stray shot.

Go to Hospital.

After the officers returned and Tibbitts went to a hospital to have his wound treated, Quigg was called, said Beecher. Quigg came to the hospital and said someone will have to go back there and move that negro's body where it won't be found for several days or you will have to agree on a story to fix your presence somewhere else," Beecher testified.

After the officers refused to go back and move the body, Beecher said all except Tibbitts went to a negro baseball park where they agreed on a story that Tibbitts had been wounded at the park by an unidentified negro, who escaped.

Frame New Story.

Pierce said he accompanied Quigg to the hospital to have Tibbitts' wound treated. "The boys have played hell and Tibbitts is shot," he quoted Quigg as having said.

"We'll have to frame another story," he said the chief of police told them. Kier was left dead on the outskirts of the city after several shots were fired into his body.

Pierce said Narworth told Quigg that the negro seized Tibbitts' gun and wounded the lieutenant.

Former Commander of Knight Riders Says Kluxers Sought To Intimidate Western State.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—(AP) Acts of terrorism alleged to have been committed by members of the Ku Klux Klan in Ohio in recent years and a charge that the secret order was closely associated with units of state government were related to Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliam today by James R. Ramsey, of Gratiot, Wis. The testimony was taken in a deposition in Gilliam's suit to oust the Klan from Indiana.

The "Battalion of Death" of the Klan and the Knight Riders of Ohio, were branches of the Klan formed to carry out a program of terror, including public whippings, burning churches and houses, making threats, illegal liquor raids and engaging in guerrilla warfare," Ramsey said. He lived in Dayton, Ohio, while a klansman, he added, having entered the organization at Springfield, Ohio. Ramsey said he was banished in March, 1927, and since had moved to Gratiot, Wis., where he was engaged in the amusement business.

Men were kidnapped and beaten for drunkenness, a Catholic priest was whipped, illegal liquor raids were made and other acts of terrorism committed in raising his mark above $200,000. But they regard this as a remote possibility.

Deneen Residence Is Object of Newest Attack in Political Battle for Control of State.

IS FIFTH BLAST SINCE NEW YEAR'S

Senator Is Known as Enemy of Present Regime of "Big Bill" Thompson, Mayor of City.

Chicago, March 26.—(AP)—The home of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, at 61st street and Normal avenue, was bombed tonight.

The bomb struck the front of the house, damaging it badly, the report to Englewood police said. No one was injured. Deneen was in Chicago today for the funeral of Diamond Joe Esposito, the 25th ward Italian leader who was a candidate for ward committee under the banner of the Deneen republican faction.

Police ascribed the bombing to political warfare.

The bombing was the fifth since the first of the year involving persons of high political connections. It was the first, however, directed against any persons openly opposing the city administration.

Previous bombings were at the homes of City Comptroller Fitzgarris, Dr. Reid (a political associate of Mayor Thompson), Judge Scarboro and L. Cuneo, secretary to State Attorney George W. Cook.

Less than 15 minutes later a bomb was exploded at the Crandon avenue home of Circuit Judge John A. Swanson, Deneen candidate for state attorney against Cook.

Judge Swanson was driving his car into his garage when the bomb exploded, wrecking the porch of the house and shattering windows. Where the bomb at Senator Deneen's home was a "powder pineapple," that used at Judge Swanson's was dynamite.

Senator Deneen was under attack on a political meeting, and said he was hurried from their beds by the force of the explosion.

Detective squads swarmed through the south side in the wake of the explosion, seeking the bombers and apprehensive that even more might be exploded. The odor of black powder was still in the air when the first squad reached the Deneen home.

Only one witness of the bombing at the senator's residence was found. He said he saw a large sedan, carrying four or five men, stop at 61st street and Normal avenue. One man alighted, returning in a moment and the car was driven away. A few seconds later the explosion occurred. The Deneen home is a two-story.

180 MILLION CUT IS NEW TAX PLAN

Mellon Estimates Such a Reduction Would Prevent Veto To Keep Inside Budget Estimate.

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Barring unexpected developments, Secretary Mellon's revised tax recommendation to congress will call for a reduction of not more than $200,000,000.

This became known today at the treasury in corroboration of the previously expressed opinions of administration tax experts, who estimated the new recommendations would fall in between $180,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Back-tracking from the original treasury estimates of a $225,000,000 cut in taxation, treasury officials contend, was made necessary by the overstepping of appropriations by congress, which they claim, already have exceeded the estimates of the budget bureau. In the addition, officials point out, an appropriation of at least $30,000,000 for flood relief stands in the way of the probability of other appropriations that have not yet appeared.

It is also understood that President Coolidge has made it plain to the treasury that he will veto any tax reduction measure that would jeopardize a balanced budget. Treasury officials believe that this means that if the house bill carrying reductions in taxes of $228,000,000, which is now pending before the senate finance committee, is passed by congress and sent to the white house it would meet a certain veto.

There is a slight chance, however, in the opinion of tax officials, that the house bill will be amended to meet an unexpected increase that would justify Secretary Mellon in raising his mark above $200,000,000. But they regard this as a remote possibility.

Swollen Rivers Return to Banks and Alarm Caused by Recent Disaster Found To Be Ungrounded.

ONLY ONE DEATH CAUSED BY STORM

Nevada Streams, Threatening To Break Dams, Subside as Clouds Give Away Before Sunshine.

San Francisco, March 26.—(AP)—Rivers in northern California and western Nevada were returning to their banks tonight after flooding large areas as the result of heavy rains and melting snow in the high Sierras.

North Sacramento in California and Reno in Nevada suffered most, while thousands of acres of farm lands and orchards were flooded in other sections.

In north Sacramento hundreds of homes and other buildings were partly submerged by the rising waters of the Sacramento and American rivers. Sacramento proper was protected by its high levees. All highways into North Sacramento were covered with water which caught many automobiles. One death was reported there, Zachariah Parker, 72, being drowned.

In Reno several blocks were under water from the Truckee river. Last night it was feared that Boca dam at the convergence of the Truckee and the Little Truckee, 22 miles west in California, might break and add its 500 acre-feet to the torrent that already has done much damage. This danger, if it existed, was regarded as past today, as the waters were receding and the dam still holding without signs of weakness.

Along the Stanislaus river in central California much damage was reported. Farms and orchards especially in the vicinity of Modesto were overrun. In some places the water was 6 feet deep.

SEEPAGE IN DAM WATCHED FOR DAYS.

Los Angeles, March 26.—(AP)—Seepage through the west end foundation of the St. Francis dam had been reported as early as February 1 and steadily increased until the huge structure collapsed under the pressure of its impounded waters, the concrete jutting out of the canyon wall was reported by William T. Hoke, retired mining man.

The witness, who lives in San Francisco, said the dam was built on a bed of sand and gravel, and was spread by the floodwaters, declared the material on which the west end of the dam was set was not clay, but that it contained a large percentage of material that would become fuller's earth when soaked. Hoke testified he had mined in the canyon wall for some thirty years.

Seepage had "increased greatly" Saturday, 72 hours before the disaster, and Monday a few hours before the dam collapsed, it was "very muddy," declared the witness.

Hoke said he was not a geologist, except by practical experience, but that he believed he "knew the canyon structure as well as any man living."

UNEMPLOYED, MAN COMMITS SUICIDE AS WIFE LOOKS ON

Placing a revolver to his heart while his wife looked on in horror, H. V. Johnson, 25, of 246 Ponce de Leon avenue, Monday afternoon shot and killed himself in their room while dependent over his failure to obtain employment, according to police.

An inquest will not be necessary, according to Coroner Paul Donohoe, who signed the death certificate.

Mrs. Johnson told Call Officers Jones and Higgins that she and her husband had just returned from a search for another apartment when he walked to a bureau and obtained the revolver, shooting himself through the heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson came to Atlanta recently from Edgewater, Fla., where Johnson had been working in fruit packing houses. Johnson's father, W. C. Johnson, lives in Michigan City, Fla.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Ed Bond & Condon. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MRS. COOLIDGE IS AGAIN CALLED TO MOTHER'S SIDE

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Alarmed by reports from Northampton that the illness of her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, had become more serious, Mrs. Coolidge left Washington this afternoon for the Massachusetts city on the first train available. She took her son John with her.

President Coolidge remained in Washington, held to his desk by his duties. It is understood, however, that should Mrs. Goodhue's condition fail to improve, he also would make the trip.

Mrs. Goodhue, who is 78 years old, has been confined in a hospital at Northampton since last December. Twice before Mrs. Coolidge has been called to her side by crises which, although overcome, left Mrs. Goodhue weaker and less able to face the next relapse.

Nation Speculates As Stock Turnover Breaks All Bounds

4,176,200 SHARES SOLD DURING DAY

General Motors Rises Precipitously to $199 and Others Climb in Trail of Spectacular Issue.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, March 26.—(United News.)—This presidential campaign is being waged more on the floors of congress than on the stump as is customary.

Presidential candidates themselves are as a whole far less active than ever before, leaving the forensics largely to their friends in congress. The only notable exception is Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, who is waging his own stump battle for the democratic presidential campaign. He opened a southern speaking tour tonight at High Point, N. C. Recently he made a speaking trip to the Pacific coast.

With this chief exception the presidential candidates are heard from largely through their respective friends and enemies in congress. Today, for instance, the senate heard an attack on Secretary of Commerce Hoover's prohibition attitude from Senator Neely, West Virginia democrat.

The house heard a debate over the republican candidacy of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, by Representative Holaday, Illinois, republican, who favors him, and Representative Schafer, Wisconsin, republican, who opposes him. Schafer urged the candidacy of Speaker Longworth, of Ohio.

This is a new development in presidential campaigns, the concentrating of the oratory in congress. In the past candidates have hurried frantically all over the country prior to the nomination conventions. The tendency now seems to be back toward the time before the nomination convention when presidential candidates were selected by caucuses of party members in congress.

Senator Reed alone appears to still have faith in the historic custom of a candidate going out to fight his own battle on the front line.

Secretary Hoover has been an avowed candidate for some weeks but he has made no political speech. When he was attacked in the house his friend, Representative Burton, of Ohio, defended him.

Lowden has made no speaking tour thus far. Vice President Dawes, not an active candidate, is considered by all politicians to be a potential factor, yet he is constantly refusing speaking invitations lest he might appear to be making a bid for the nomination.

Democrats, except Reed, are likewise emulating the modest virtue. Governor Smith has refused dozens of invitations to speak. Senator Walsh of Montana, is making no canvass. Senator George, of Georgia, has made only a few isolated speeches.

Twenty of Activity.

Political horse-dropping seems to have been started on its decline by President Coolidge.

RAIL MEN INDORSE 'LOAN SHARK' WAR

Roads in This Territory To Give Employees Full Cooperation in Combating Illegal Practices.

Dealing with what is regarded the most deadly blow yet directed against usurious salary buyers and loan sharks during the two years the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce has combated such practices, recommendations were accepted Monday at a conference of executive and legal representatives of practically every railroad in this territory and those designed to give full support of employees to thousands of workers in opposing illegal loan agencies.

These recommendations, having been given the unanimous approval of railroad officials and attorneys attending the conference at the Ansley hotel, are to be submitted to the companies represented for formal adoption and incorporation into the regulations and bulletins of the transportation concerns. They would restrain purchasers of salaries and loan agents operating on fraudulent bases from intimidating their patrons into paying fabulous rates of interest for fear of being discharged by their employers.

The meeting, which marked the culmination of strenuous efforts on the part of the junior chamber's legal aid committee, headed by R. J. Reynolds, was held at the Ansley hotel.

DIPLOMATS RIDE WITH LINDBERGH

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—High hats, spats and canes were left behind in embassies and legations today as members of the diplomatic corps slipped into flying clothes for a ride over Washington with Colonel Lindbergh.

The diplomats went to Bolling field in their private automobiles, but once on the ground they jostled as eagerly as did the congressional group last week for the opportunity of getting into the plane with the famous flier at the helm.

That Lindbergh's Pan-American good-will flight had aroused interest in aviation seemed to be emphasized by the preponderance of Central and South American diplomats who asked for cards to fly. European and Asiatic nations, however, were amply represented among the more than 200 passengers who availed themselves of the 10-minute air-derbies.

The ambassador from Cuba, the minister from Austria, the Chinese minister and his wife and Mme. Clandet, wife of the French ambassador, were among those who flew, along with dozens of charges d'affaires, secretaries and attaches from nearly every embassy and legation.

The tired colonel announced at the end of today's flights that "his program was over." And that his future plans were indefinite. He attended a smoker for enlisted men at Bolling field early tonight and seemed glad that the strain of handshaking was over.

He said he did not know when he would leave Washington.

Today's passengers numbered slightly more than 200 in 22 sets, making a total of approximately 1,100 who rode with him in 100 flights during the past six days. His flights were made at about 90 miles an hour, and totaled about 2,400 miles above Washington and the Virginia side of the Potomac river.

STATE WITNESS GETS $10,000 IN MELLETT DEATH

Canton, Ohio, March 26.—(AP)—Steve Kascholk, Cleveland, the state's principal witness in cases growing out of the assassination of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, was given $10,000 as his share of the $24,000 reward fund today by Common Pleas Judge Charles Kirschbaum and A. W. Agler.

Kascholk spent almost a year in custody as a material witness while his trials were in progress. William Betzler and his wife, Eva, of Canton, whose testimony was considered next in importance were given $3,000 each. Ora M. Slater, Cincinnati detective, was given $1,000. Smaller amounts were distributed among a score of other persons.

With clear and cooler weather forecast for Atlanta today by C. F. von Herrmann, a considerable decline in mean temperature is expected to occur today. With the rain of Saturday and Sunday, Atlanta experienced a rainfall of .19, Mr. von Herrmann said.

Temperatures Monday ranged from a minimum reading of 55 degrees early in the morning to a maximum reading of 78 degrees.

TEN-ACRE PLAYGROUND PLANNED BY VETERANS

Members of a committee of the Roosevelt auxiliary, No. 2, department of Georgia, United States war veterans, will meet at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Henry Grady hotel to complete plans for converting a ten-acre plot near Buckhead into a picnic and playground.

The plot of ground is being turned over to the auxiliary by Sam C. Crane. The members of the committee are Mrs. H. D. Shadden, Mrs. A. O. Woodward, Mrs. W. D. Conley, Mrs. A. E. Haley and Mrs. Ida D. Scogan.

It is the purpose of the auxiliary, according to Mrs. Shadden, to expend whatever money is necessary on the land to convert it into a playground for the neighboring children and a picnicking ground for residents of Atlanta. It is located six and one-half miles from Atlanta, east of Buckhead.

1,000 HEAR SERMONS BY DR. H. C. MORRISON

More than 1,000 are estimated to have heard the Rev. Dr. H. C. Morrison, noted revivalist, in the two services he conducted Monday as a part of a two week's revival series being held at the St. Paul Methodist church.

At the 10 o'clock service held Monday morning about 150 pastors were present, and following the meeting those occupying pulpits in the South Atlanta district, Methodist Episcopal church, south, held a short conference.

The large auditorium was filled at 7:30 o'clock Monday night when Dr. Morrison assailed irreligious church memberships. Some churches object to shouting, and a man of woman has no right to proclaim their connection with God in some of the so-called aristocratic congregations, said Dr. Morrison.

An attitude of that kind must nauseate and disgust Christ, who died to save men, Dr. Morrison said. "I believe every man should have the right to talk to God in the way that he sees fit. Some congregations are so cold and so steeped in sin that they feel sacrilegious to talk aloud to the God they pretend to serve."

Dr. Morrison will speak twice daily, at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 7:30 o'clock at night, every day this week, with the exception of Saturday, when there will be no service. The meeting will close Sunday night.

Atlanta Offered Service by Phone To French Capital

Trans-Atlantic telephone service from all parts of the United States and Cuba will be extended to Paris on Wednesday, March 28.

France makes the third continental European nation to be added to the trans-Atlantic circuit, which opened to Great Britain on January 7, 1927. The rate for the French capital will be $3.75 higher for three minutes and $1.25 higher for each succeeding minute than the present rates from this country to London. Thus a call from Atlanta to Paris will cost $51.75 for the first three minutes and $17.25 for each minute thereafter.

Historic interest attaches to the opening of commercial service to Paris due to the fact that the first words spoken by human voice to be heard across the Atlantic were received at the Eiffel tower, Paris, in 1915, by Bell system engineers who, through the courtesy of the French government, were stationed there to listen to signals sent out by other telephone engineers who were conducting experiments at the United States naval radio station at Arlington, Va.

WILL NOW FACING GOBS OF TROUBLE IF HE PEDDLES RUM

Will Thomas, negro, will be a long way outside the law in the event he peddles booze from his Wylie street residence.

The state ban and the federal ban are general, but Will has a special court injunction aimed at him. Will took the matter into superior court when he asked that police be enjoined from raiding his premises.

City Attorney James L. Mayson, countered with a petition for a padlock order.

The case came up Monday. Attorney Mayson kept referring to Will's kitchen as the "whisky room."

Roy Drennon, the negro's counsel, objected.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore ruled the apartment could be referred to as the "room where the whisky is kept," but "banned the term, 'whisky room.'"

The city attorney said Will's place was a "public nuisance." So Judge Moore ordered Will to clean house and quiet down or stand in contempt of court.

NORTH CAROLINA SHOOTING TRIAL ORDERED DELAY

Charlotte, N. C., March 26.—(AP)—Trial of Aldred Griffith, charged with shooting Colonel Leroy Springs, Lancaster, S. C., and Charlotte textile magnate, today was postponed in superior court until April 28.

The case was set for trial tomorrow but defense attorneys today asked a continuance on the ground that they had not had time to prepare their case since the grand jury did not indict Griffith until last week.

Colonel Springs was not in court today and is said to be in New York, where he went to recuperate.

Colonel Springs was shot in the side of the face when he refused to discuss an old business matter with Griffith. The shooting occurred on a busy thoroughfare here.

FLORIDA EDITORS ARE DENIED MERIT IN LIBEL ACTION

Bartow, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—An attempt today to win their freedom from charges of criminal libel through habeas corpus proceedings failed James A. Metcalfe, editor of the Tri-City Times, of Winter Haven, and C. W. McCoy, citrus grower of the same city.

The charges had been preferred by C. C. Commander, general manager of the Florida Citrus exchange, General A. H. Blanding, field manager, and O. M. Felix, secretary of the same organization.

The hearing was held before Judge H. C. Taylor of the circuit court.

After denial of the writ the case was set for trial in the local criminal court a week from Friday. Bond of $3,000 each was continued with James Foley, county commissioner from Winter Haven, and J. J. Boynton, former Polk county tax assessor, as bondsmen.

'Clean-Up, Paint-Up' Drive Seeks To Save Atlanta $5,000,000 During Year

Completion of Executive Organization for Campaign Is Announced at Meeting of Workers.

Driving to save Atlanta $5,000,000 this year from rot, rust and erosion, the general "Clean-Up-Paint-Up" committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta Woman's club and allied organizations launched at a luncheon Monday in the chamber of commerce the preliminary organization work for "Clean-Up-Paint-Up Week," to be held April 16-21. Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, speaking in assurance of the cooperation of his department, estimated that Atlanta loses not less than $1,000,000 annually in unnecessary rot, rust and erosion of unpainted or poorly painted buildings, fences and other structures, both of wood and metal.

Lavish Use of Paint. "The thing that impressed me most about the 100-year-old and 200-year-old buildings still standing and in good condition in New England was the amount of paint used on them," Professor Sutton told the general committee. "I obtained permission to use my pocket knife on the surface of one snug old home that had been occupied for more than 250 years and found that its surface was protected by a coating of paint more than a quarter of an inch thick, the accumulation of yearly paintings for more than two centuries. The same is true of every farmhouse and barn in New England. Here in the south the life of our frame dwellings is cut short by neglect of the very simple and obvious protection offered by regular and adequate painting.

C. M. Jones, city smoke inspector, reported to the committee that the United States government recently made an estimate that at least $4,000,000 a year was lost in Atlanta through inadequate control of the smoke nuisance, the sum including not only the waste of fuel but also the erosion caused on buildings of all materials by gases in the smoke.

Among the organizations represented were the Atlanta Woman's club, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Salvation Army, American Legion, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, women's division of the Chamber of Commerce, Peachtree Garden club and others.

Plans Are Completed. Completion of the executive organization for the campaign was announced by Powers Pace, who as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Clean-Up-Paint-Up committee was named chairman of the general committee, including all the allied bodies.

Mrs. J. R. Little, chairman of the civic division of the Atlanta Woman's club, will act as director general of the campaign. W. R. DeLoach, of the Fulton National bank, was named treasurer and all contributions from public-spirited Atlantans toward defraying incidental expenses of the campaign should be sent to him, Mr. Pace stated.

L. O. Bracken, of the Sears-Roebuck foundation, will direct the radio division; John A. White, chairman of the parks committee of city council, will direct the parks division; Chief W. B. Cody, of the fire department, will direct the fire prevention division; Frank Reynolds, with the cooperation of Chief John Jensen, of the city sanitary department; Dr. H. R. Kennedy, of the city health department; and Chief W. B. Hansell, of the city construction department, will direct the sanitary division; Lionel Keene, of Loew's Grand, will direct the theater cooperation division; Press Huddleston, of L. W. Rogers company, will direct the chain stores division; F. J. Coolege, Jr., of F. J. Coolege & Sons, will direct the men's division; Bruce Moran, of Eastman-Scott company, will direct the publicity and advertising division, with cooperation of L. K. Starr, of the Georgia Power company.

West Will Aid. George W. West, former president of the Chamber of Commerce and president of the Georgia Building and Loan league, will direct the home owners' division; B. F. White will direct a special division of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Dr. Willis A. Sutton will direct the school division.

A definite program of activity for each division will be mapped this week at daily meetings of the division directors at offices to be opened Tuesday in the Chamber of Commerce building, where Mrs. Little, as director general, will be in daily attendance to give information and assistance to campaign workers.

PALMER BUILDING BRINGS $550,000

Sale of the northeast corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets, the site of the Palmer building, for a consideration of $550,000, involving as part consideration the long-term leasehold in another prominent downtown parcel featured recent activities of the local real estate market, according to announcements Monday.

According to details of the deal given out by W. Arthur Stokes, Jr., and Henry H. Robinson, of the Adair Realty and Loan company, who acted as brokers, the Palmer building property was purchased by Frank Hawkins, chairman of the board of the Citizens and Southern bank, from the Horine Holding company, of Miami, Fla. As part payment on the purchase price of title in fee simple, to the important Marietta and Forsyth corner, Mr. Hawkins transferred a 99-year leasehold in the northeast corner of Peachtree street and Auburn avenue, improved with a three-story commercial building. The leasehold is said to represent a value of $160,000.

The leasehold acquired by the Horine company as part consideration on the purchase price for the corner has 82 years to run, it was stated. It is on the property owned by G. S. Prior.

The Palmer building property is subject to a lease of 23 years held by Palmer, Inc., operators of the office building. At the end of this time, according to the terms of the lease announced, the building will revert with the property to Mr. Hawkins, the purchaser of the title in fee simple.

The Horine Holding company, which represents the interest of the Horine family, formerly of Atlanta, came into possession of the Marietta corner originally as its share in the old DeGivie estate. The site is a historic one, having been formerly occupied by the DeGivie opera house, which later was used as the Bijou theater. The Palmer building was erected in 1921.

EXPERT YEGGMEN ROB STORE SAFE OF $5,000

Between $4,000 and $5,000 in cash was taken from the safe of F. & W. Grand, Inc., at Whitehall and Hunter streets during the week-end by burglars who entered the store through a veritable labyrinth of passageways from an office building next door, according to a report to police. Detectives who inspected the safe said that the work was evidently that of well-trained cracksmen.

The robbery was discovered Monday morning when the store was opened. Immediately on learning of the loss, L. B. Baker, manager, had the store closed for two hours in order to give detectives an opportunity of inspecting the scene thoroughly. Except for several batteries and drills which the burglars left behind them, few clues were found.

Picking the lock of an office building whose upper floors adjoin the Grand store, the burglars made their way to an enclosed stairway which led to the empty top floor of the store, and then cut through the flooring into the stockroom beneath. The job of reaching the empty top floor required the breaking open of two heavy metal doors.

Five Holes Drilled. Five holes were drilled in the safe for the introduction of nitroglycerine, and clothing from the store's stock was used to muffle the sound of the explosion.

Burglars who entered the American Laundry Lunch room, at 288 Walker street, escaped with $14 in cash, a box of meal tickets, and a quantity of cigarettes and candy.

The Red Front Lunch room, at 915 Marietta street, was robbed of a peanut machine, a post card machine, and some soft drinks and chewing gum, according to a report to police.

Mrs. Maud Nunnally, of the Biltmore Apartments, reported to police the theft of a yellow gold wedding ring. The date, "June 28, 1909," appears in the ring.

A suitcase containing jewelry and clothing was stolen from the automobile of Mrs. C. W. Greer, of Dayton, Ohio, according to a report to police.

Mrs. J. W. Hill, of Peachtree road, reported the theft of a white, shaggy terrier. The dog answers to the name of "Jim Rickey," police were told.

FISH-GAME BOARD WORKER SUSPENDED

Captain R. W. Clancy, state tide-water commissioner in the game and fish department, was suspended from duty under charges of "insubordination" by the state game and fish commission at a session of that body held at the capitol Monday, it was announced after the meeting.

The charge of "insubordination" grew out of the fight which developed over location of the tide-water headquarters, it was learned from D. M. Byrd, chairman of the commission. Captain Clancy favored establishment of these headquarters at Darien and after the state board of game and fish adopted a resolution recently establishing these headquarters at Brunswick, Captain Clancy gave a newspaper interview in which he declared he would never consent to this action, according to Mr. Byrd. It also was stated by Mr. Byrd that the shrimp and oyster dealers in the Brunswick territory signed a petition asking for removal of Captain Clancy.

Mr. Byrd said the board of game and fish agreed at its meeting Monday to pay Captain Clancy his salary during his suspension. Captain Clancy's term of office expires January 1, 1929, and the board will pay his salary until that date, according to Mr. Byrd.

"Captain Clancy was appointed for a four-year term and it is only fair that he should be paid for this term of service, in the opinion of the board members," Mr. Byrd said. "We have a man whose duties we can shift so that he can take care of this work without any extra expense to the state."

In a statement issued Monday Captain Clancy declared that he would refuse to turn over the office records and state property to a successor. He denied that he had been guilty of insubordination and intimated that he would demand a formal presentation of charges. He said the records of his office will show that he had not been guilty of insubordination.

Mr. Byrd said the action of the board Monday was final and that the case would not be reopened. He said the board regretted to take its action, but said it was forced to act under the circumstances. Those present at the meeting were Chairman Byrd and Dr. J. G. Harden, of Whigham. Charles S. Arnow, third member, was not present.

ART GILHAM, RADIO STAR, ON CIVITANS' NOONDAY PROGRAM

Discussing affairs of general civic and development interest, Louis D. Newton, editor of the City Builder and the Christian Index, today will address the Atlanta Civitan club at its noon luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic club.

Those in charge of the program have secured a topline in entertainment in Art Gilham, Columbia record artist and radio broadcasting star of national fame, who will render a number of his most popular musical selections.

Interest among Civitans is daily growing keener in the "on to Detroit" drive for attendance from the local club at the International Civitan convention in June, and work in preparation for establishing a children's ward in the state tuberculosis hospital at Alto is progressing rapidly, officials in charge state. Herbert Z. Hopkins, president of the club, will preside at today's luncheon, and reports on activities will be rendered by B. C. Broyles, chairman of the "on to Detroit" drive, and Herbert Porter, president of the Georgia State Association of Civitan Clubs, and a leader in affairs of the Atlanta club.

Soprano To Sing Florence Folie-Talbert, negro dramatic soprano, will appear in a concert at the First Congregational negro church on Houston street Tuesday evening, April 10. The concert will be sponsored by The Fine Arts Study club, an organization which exists with the purpose of encouraging literature, art and music among the negroes.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair.

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and will not rub off—(adv.)

PEACHTREE ARCADE

NEW RECORD MADE IN ELEPHANT GAME

Here's a new record in the Constitution's famous Elephant Game, with $4,000 in cash prizes, solutions for which close Thursday night at midnight.

Last Friday a woman entered her solution at only five hours of actual working time, the five hours being scattered over a period of two days. Monday another woman came to the Constitution and qualified her solution, stating that she had worked on it for only three hours during a single day.

With three days remaining before the game closes, persons who have not yet entered may work the problem, submit and qualify their answers and have an equal chance at the big prizes, which start with a capital award of $1,500. Start now—and make it snappy!

All who have been working on the game should immediately submit their solutions and see that they are properly qualified. Don't delay until the eleventh hour; something unexpected may turn up to prevent you from being in line for one of the big rewards.

Spring's Call Heard At Police Barracks As 'Clean-Up' Starts

The subtle touch of spring is being felt at the police station these fine sunshiny days. Imbued with that spirit which causes wives to chase their husbands away to a hotel while they tear the house upside down for spring cleaning, police officials have started an extensive cleaning of the police station.

Painters have been at work several days in repainting the walls of the detective bureau and the chief's office. The dirt and grime of several years has been scoured from the walls and the cracks and holes patched up. The floors are being reouched by carpenters, and workmen are busy in every quarter making the station house spot and span and worthy of a city of 200,000 people.

STITCHCOMB IN RACE FOR COUNCIL PLACE

Following announcement Monday by Fred Stinchcomb, prominent Atlanta attorney, that he would be a candidate for council from the fourth ward to succeed Councilman C. J. Vaughan, J. P. Wall, chairman of the city democratic executive committee, stated that the schedule meeting of the subcommittee would be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, instead of Thursday as at first announced.

Several subcommittees are planning to attend a convention Thursday in Savannah and Mr. Wall changed the meeting date in order that all members could attend the session at which date of closing of entries and entrance fees are to be set.

Mr. Stinchcomb has been practicing law in Atlanta for the past six years, and is a member of the city democratic executive committee from the fourth ward. He has been a resident of the fourth ward for the past five years. In addition to his membership in the Atlanta bar and other civic and political organizations, he is prominently affiliated in fraternal and secret order circles.

HOME BREW BLAST SHATTERS WINDOWS AT COURT HOUSE

County policemen Sunday afternoon reached apprehensively for their guns as a cannonade broke out in the corridors of the courthouse.

Instead of a hostile army, it proved to be the wholesale explosion of some high-pressure home brew captured in a raid Saturday.

Flying bits of glass shattered the windows of a store room adjoining the desk sergeant's quarters, and did considerable damage to the glassware evidence contained within.

Desk Sergeant's Oral Head and W. C. Chappelle were on duty at the time.

POPE CRITICIZES ITALIAN PARTY

Rome, March 26.—(AP)—The pontiff in a speech quoted directly by the Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, today severely criticized the Italian national Catholic center party for what he considers its lukewarm allegiance to the Holy See, and by inference, for its almost complete surrender to the influence of the fascist state.

The pontiff's speech, which was delivered yesterday when the members of the Roman diocesan board were received at the Vatican, was passed over completely by the press until its publication in the Osservatore Romano this evening had a bombshell effect in political and ecclesiastical circles.

That it was intended to be effective is indicated by the fact that the pope read it from notes prepared by his own hand, the Vatican organ explaining—"as he himself said, to be more severely sure of words corresponding to his thought."

He himself and the bishops, he said, had been pained and grieved at the realization of the existence of a complete plan tending to a veritable monopoly of juvenile education, not only physical, but moral and spiritual.

This reflection on fascism, the pontiff amplified by saying that its teachings "often showed contradiction or ignorance of the most elemental and most noteworthy pedagogic principles."

He emphasized that the pontiff's silence was wrongly interpreted during the Catholic party's convention.

GUST OF WINTER BRINGS SNOW TO CHICAGO VICINITY

Chicago, March 26.—(AP)—A gust of winter, overdone and marked by a blinding snowstorm, followed close upon three days of summer weather in Chicago. Through the week end the temperature climbed above 70 degrees, only to crash down to freezing last night.

Sleet and snow swirling throughout the city today delayed traffic. Elevated and street car service was slowed up to mid-winter schedules and there is no immediate hope for spring's return. Continued cold is predicted for the middle west.

COPPER KING VISITS SOUTHERN GEORGIA

Valdosta, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—Among the many visitors in this city last night and today was Adolph Lewinson, of New York city, well known as the "copper king." Mr. Lewinson had about 12 persons in his party and this is the second time he has stopped in Valdosta this season, being at this time en route from Florida to his home city.

Bible Is Stressed Significant Finds Lead to Extension Of Excavation Work at Carter's Quarter

Opening the fifth week of the six-week union noonday services at the First Baptist church, the Rev. W. R. Dobyns, pastor of the South Highland Presbyterian church, of Birmingham, Ala., Monday delivered a strong and forceful sermon before a capacity house. These services are drawing thousands from all parts of the state.

Taking as his subject "The Incomparable Book," Dr. Dobyns declared: "We all have a goal in life that we hope to reach some day, and we must have a guide. The Bible is the guide that will enable us to attain our goal. It is the 'incomparable book' and our only salvation in reaching the higher things that God has put within our grasp."

These services are being held under auspices of the Atlanta Christian council and the Evangelical Ministers' association, and are attracting attention in religious circles throughout the city and Fulton county. Practically every Protestant church in Atlanta is participating in the meetings.

Among Atlanta's religious workers and pastors who are giving their aid to the meetings this week are Rev. Wade H. Boggs, pastor of the DeWitt Hills Presbyterian church; Rev. W. Lee Outts, pastor of the Capitol View Baptist church; Dr. J. W. Caldwell, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church; Dr. W. A. Eisenhart, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church; Dr. L. A. Griggs, pastor of the Fonce de Leon Avenue Methodist Episcopal church; Mrs. Charles Williamson, of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, and Dr. C. B. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church.

Dr. Cox was elected by the junior college campaign committee to head the new institution as president at their meeting today.

Dr. Cox's acceptance was predicated on the conditions of the university trustees with the stipulation that he would come here once a month to supervise the administration of the proposed auxiliary institution. In his absence the school would be placed under direction of a dean responsible directly to Dr. Cox.

AMERICAN HUNTER IS KILLED BY TIGER IN SIBERIAN WILDS

Khabarovsk, Maritime Province, Siberia, March 26.—(AP)—The disfigured body of Arthur Delews, with a broken spine, was found by native hunters deep in the forests bordering the Nemtza river, about 155 miles from the Amur river. Delews arrived in the far east 18 months ago. He had been accompanied throughout the winter hunting by a peasant guide named Simonoff. Early in January, however, he tried to trap a tiger, but the animal came from the trap and threw itself upon the hunter, killing him instantly.

Arthur Delews was described as an American in the first word of this Siberian hunting tragedy which was received last Saturday.

ESCAPED PRISONER HERE IS BELIEVED FOUND IN PRISON

Postal Inspector Clyde Fleming will leave tonight for Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where a man said to answer to the description of Henry B. Davis, alias Howard Beecher, wanted by local officials, is serving a term for desertion from the army.

If Inspector Fleming identifies the suspect, the discovery will crown a nationwide search of 16 months for the man who made a daring escape from a Federal Reserve bank on an automobile en route from Fulton tower to the federal court on December 6, 1926.

Davis is alleged to have stolen mail from the post office box assigned to the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank on August 15, and October 19, 1926. The Los Angeles police department identified from circulation the man serving the term as the one wanted here for robbing the mails.

Scenes at Carter's Quarter during mound excavation work.

Highly elated over the discovery of one of the richest Indian mounds in Georgia, Dr. Warren K. Moorehead, noted professor of archaeology, of Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., is extending his excavations several extra days in order to complete his discovery at Carter's Quarter, near Chambliss, Ga. Dr. Moorehead was to have completed his work Saturday, but decided to remain over at Carter's Quarter until Wednesday in order to fully explore the mound.

One of the most significant finds at

The process of excavating the Carter's mound is shown in the picture at the top of the group. Dr. Moorehead is seen just to the right of the shovel handle. The man in the lower

In the lower right hand corner is shown a duck head made of clay, one of the most important finds at Carter's. The lower center picture shows a small shell amulet, finely carved, together with several shell beads.

Dr. Moorehead expects to return to Andover in the next few days, and will spend several months in preparation of his 200-page report on the Georgia mounds. The report will be ready for release next winter.

Producer of Summer Stock Will Arrive Here Thursday

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

More good news about Atlanta's summer season of de luxe comedy and dramatic productions to be staged at the Erlanger theater beginning the week of April 16 will be made public Thursday with arrival of Fred Kohlmar, prominent young New York producer, who is a member of the firm which will direct the activities of the new company here, it was announced Monday by Lewis Haase, manager of the Erlanger.

One of the foremost actresses in the country, Helen Mencken, will serve as leading lady for the company in the first offering which will be Edward Stieglitz' comedy, "Romance," to be offered here the week of April 16, according to Mr. Haase.

"We are expecting Mr. Kohlmar Thursday and he will be ready at that time to make public the names of some of the able actors and actresses who will appear in the Atlanta company at the Erlanger this summer," Mr. Haase said. "Mr. Kohlmar not only will bring information about the noted stars who will appear here but also will tell of some of the big New York dramatic and comedy hits which will be offered to the Atlanta people this summer."

Mr. Kohlmar will be ready to give out information concerning the season of season tickets for the summer engagement and will make public other information concerning the run here which will be of widespread interest in theatrical circles. Mr. Kohlmar will be associated with Robert Williamson, who is a member of the firm of A. H. Woods, one of the largest producing companies in the country. Mr. Kohlmar will bring with him a scenic artist Thursday who will begin work at once on settings for "Romance," the first offering.

Mr. Haase was deluged with letters and telephone calls Monday relative to the engagement of the new company which was first announced in the newspapers of Atlanta Sunday.

"From the way the people are showing interest in the first announcement I am led to believe that they appreciate here the great work last year of the company headed by Madge Kennedy and Sidney Blackmer and that they are ready for another engagement of a company which will equal, in every way, that great company," Mr. Haase said.

Miss Mencken, who will appear as leading woman, scored one of her greatest successes in John Golden's

Dorham, Ala., March 26.—(AP)—A grand jury was ordered impaneled today for April 9 to investigate the case of Charles Campbell, prohibition officer charged with a statutory offense and murder in the first degree. Campbell is in the Montgomery jail, but is expected to be brought back to Dorham within the next few days.

Campbell was arrested following the disclosure made by an eighteen-year-old Webb, Ala., girl, who charged him with assaulting her. The girl died following the alleged attack and charges mentioned above were made against the officer. When told violence was feared Campbell was taken to Montgomery. The feeling, it is believed, has died down and Campbell will be returned to Houston county jail.

Merger Is Planned Of Victor Company And Radio Corporation

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Definite proposals for a merger of the Radio Corporation of America and the Victor Talking Machine company, which would unite two concerns with securities having a market value exceeding $250,000,000, are being prepared for submission at a meeting this week, it was reported in Wall street today.

Daily conferences are said to be in progress and the proposed consolidation is believed to have made much headway. Officials of both companies and bankers affiliated with their affairs continue their reticence, however, and are not inclined to discuss the present stages of the negotiations.

Wall street hears interests associated with E. J. De Pout de Nemours & Co. have bought heavily on Radio Corporation stock which has had such a sensational advance on the New York Stock exchange.

SENATE REJECTS S-4 PROBE PLAN

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Investigation of the three-month-old disaster of the sinking of the submarine S-4 and the loss of 40 lives was left up in the air again today by the senate's refusal of a compromise offer of the house to have a joint presidential and congressional commission do the work.

Senate democrats again demanded that an inquiry to supplement that already made by the navy be made by congress rather than by a presidential commission as was asked by President Coolidge and approved by the house. With the votes of some republican independents they defeated, 41 to 24, a compromise born in the conference between the senate and house conference.

Presidential Commission.

This compromise, offered by Senator Hale, republican, of Maine, chairman of the naval committee, would have the proposed presidential commission of five members include three members of congress.

Defeat of this report from the conference committee put the question up to the house again, which has never voted on the proposal for a congressional inquiry. Whether parliamentary procedure will permit of a vote by the house is understood to depend upon its rejection first of the conference report.

House Can Accept.

It is possible for the house then to accept the senate proposal for a congressional investigation.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, who led the fight against the conference report, announced he would demand a separate senate inquiry into the disaster in the event that a congressional inquiry was denied.

Edwards Hurls Charge.

Senator Edwards, democrat, of New Jersey, charged that the coast guard destroyer Paulding which rammed the submarine was engaged in chasing runners.

Sensors Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Gerry, of Rhode Island, democrat, also denounced the proposal for a presidential commission investigation, declaring it meant that Secretary Wilbur, whose navy department would be under scrutiny, would have the power to name the investigators.

Mayor 'Big Bill' Gives Medals To Graduates in Americanism

Chicago, March 26.—(AP)—Medals and certificates of citizenship have been awarded 200 members of the first class to complete the course in Americanism sponsored by Mayor Thompson's America first foundation. "Graduation" ceremonies were held at the Olympic theater yesterday.

The medals certified to "honor in citizenship." The certificates testified that the holders had completed 20 lessons from the America first manual.

As the graduates filed by to the music of "America the Beautiful" the medals were pinned on them by Rear Admiral Henry J. Ziegler, commander at the Great Lakes naval training station. Colonel Nathaniel F. McClure, representing Brigadier General Paul B. Malone, of the sixth corps area, awarded the certificates.

"We expect you to manifest good citizenship rather than had citizenship," the class was told by T. A. Mills, an employee of the foundation. "You may well preserve this America first manual, which may direct your lives."

"In the name of Uncle Sam, I appeal to you to take hold with us for peace on earth," said Willem Gill, writer of patriotic pamphlets, who was another speaker.

OBREGON AGAINST SALE OF LIQUOR

Mexico City, March 26.—(AP)—Prohibition was injected into Mexican national politics tonight by General Alvaro Obregon, sole candidate for the presidency of the republic. He proposed it in a political speech at Risco, in the state of Guanajuato, and declared that alcohol, gambling, prostitution, and "wicked Catholics" were the principal enemies of the Mexican people.

"Reactionaries, who would overthrow the revolution," he said, "are not our only enemies. They have powerful allies in alcohol and gambling."

Reaction Is Enemy.

"Reaction is our principal enemy, alcohol is its most formidable ally, and the sale of liquor is the ally of all the enemies of the revolution," he said. "We must eliminate from our social order, the forces called 'reactionaries' who live on honest men's work."

"We must show that public opinion assigns as a means of justice to all those who encourage the consumption of alcohol, since it atrophies mental faculties and morals and destroys the social order. Alcohol is a cancer we must fight in order to exterminate it from the Mexican family."

"Wicked Catholics."

General Obregon said that "wicked Catholics" were those who used their religion as a means of propagating anti-government activities. He praised the patriotism and the morality of country people who have always been willing to shed their blood for their country when necessary. Then he said:

Spill More Blood.

"It may be necessary to spill a little more blood in those regions in order to eliminate the forces called 'reactionaries' who live on honest men's work."

Los Angeles Audience Pays Premium To See The Captive

Los Angeles, March 26.—(AP)—The cast and the two producers of "The Captive" for the third time in two consecutive days closed the show with a trip to the police station last night.

All were charged with participating in an obscene play, and, as on the former occasions, were released on bail.

A capacity audience was warned at the opening of the drama that it would be closed by the arrest of the cast at the end of the second act and an offer was made to refund the money of any person desiring to leave.

So far as observers could see, no one left.

great enthusiasm in Germany because the experts are fully convinced that an airplane with one motor is inadequate for a trans-oceanic journey.

The Yossische Zeitung sends an unkind criticism after the flying aviator. "After Captain Koehl has again attempted to cross the ocean with a one-motor machine, one can only hope that he will not repeat the example of last summer."

Friends See Success.

Friends of the trio here are predicting success for them. They state that the Bremen was equipped with a set of four compasses and also carried a radio receiving set with which Captain Koehl expects to pick up weather reports.

Start Is Unknown.

Officials of the Luft Hansa Airplane company, which owns Tempelhof field, did not know definitely that the plane even had started until three hours after it was in the air.

But mechanics had been waiting here in daily anticipation of a trans-Atlantic attempt, and when the news of today's start reached them they tried to promote their political interests by invoking a religion which they themselves do not practice—a religion which they mock by putting it at the service of their material interests.

Spill More Blood.

"It may be necessary to spill a little more blood in those regions in order to eliminate the forces called 'reactionaries' who live on honest men's work."

Machine Would Be Perfectly on Trip.

Dublin, March 26.—(AP)—"We had to struggle against head winds on our flight today from Berlin but our machine behaved splendidly."

The statement comprised the entire statement of Captain Koehl, who piloted the Bremen from Tempelhof field to Baldonnel.

He declined to say anything at all about his plans for a hop across the Atlantic. He and his companions were very tired, having been up early Sunday preparing for the flight.

The venture is not viewed with much optimism here. They say it is a "very truly yours,"

"ALFRED E. SMITH."

NYE HAS NO COMMENT ON SMITH'S LETTER.

Washington, March 26.—(United News)—Chairman Nye, of the Senate Teapot Dome committee, had no comment to make tonight on Governor Smith's latest letter to him in which he read him over the telephone by the United News.

The Senate Teapot Dome committee has temporarily deferred further hearings on the oil investigation until its investigators are prepared to make certain reports. This may be later in the week.

May Call Officials.

Chairman Nye said that some thought had been given to calling John T. Adams, who was chairman of the republican national committee in 1923 when the Will Hays-Sinclair bond transactions occurred, and Charles D. Liles, of New York, vice chairman of the national committee, who was active in raising money for the committee. Nye said it would not be decided whether to call them until after discussion by the committee.

Navy department officials denied they have made any tests at Teapot Dome to determine whether there is seepage to outside private wells. Captain H. A. Stuart, in charge of the naval reserves, said the matter is not much as the outside wells are small.

Drainage Doubtful.

Dr. George O. Smith, director of the geological survey, doubted if there is material drainage.

Reports from Teapot Dome were that dyes had been put into the closed wells and had shown oil in oil tanks from private wells outside of the reserve. This, if true, would support the contention of former Secretary of Interior Fall that it was necessary to lease the reserve to prevent oil being drained off by outside drillers.

In the Teapot Dome trial geologists were in dispute as to whether drainage existed, each side producing experts to support its own contention. The government insisted there was no drainage and that there was no reason to open up the reserve.

FLOOD CONTROL DEBATE WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Senate leaders plan to give flood control legislation the right of way in the Senate Wednesday with the pending Jones bill facing a fairly clear road to an early vote.

Meanwhile, the Norbeck bill to establish migratory bird refuges still before the Senate and apparently has encountered the first filibuster of the session. Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, held the floor against the measure for a second day today, condemning it as an invasion of state rights.

The average of 20 leading industrial shares, compiled by the Associated Press, advanced nearly a point today to the highest level in history. The average of 20 leading rails recorded a similar gain but was still a point below the year's high and 6 1/4 points below the record top established last year.

Easy money, regarded in many quarters as the basis for the recent rise in securities values, showed signs of disappearance today. Money market rates were marked up 1/8 of 1 cent over the first advance in weeks.

dent Coolidge. He is the first of the current political generation to demonstrate the value of silence in politics. His refusal to make a speech during his recent visit to the United States has been so productive that other candidates are doing likewise.

This does not mean there is no activity. There is. But it is going on quietly. This is an organizing campaign rather than a vocal one.

Senator Neely, in a formal address, described Hoover's recent visit to Senator Borah's prohibition headquarters as "the sublime height of epistolary humbuggery."

There is a blue-ribbon, a home-brewer or a bootlegger who could write a satisfactory reply to that which Mr. Hoover has written," he said. "He charged that Hoover had failed to answer Borah's questions as to whether he favored a bone-dry platform plank, pledging candidates to abstain from drinking alcoholic contents of beverages."

MAN KILLS WIFE, BABIES AND SELF

Lowden, Iowa, March 26.—(AP)—Suspended as postmaster of Lowden because of a slight shortage in his accounts, Lamber Meier shot and killed his wife and three small children today and ended his life.

Meier was 30 years old and had been postmaster for four years. It was only a few days ago that he was ordered suspended by the Washington authorities after the shortage was uncovered.

Relatives and friends were not advised of the order removing him, they said. When he went to his home last night he appeared to be cheerful. Some time during the night he turned the pistol, found clutched in his hand this morning on his wife and their three children and then sent a bullet crashing into his head.

No note of explanation was found by the coroner, who was called from Tipton to conduct an investigation. Two notes were found, however, both directing the finders to safety deposit box 107.

Jr., the Legal Aid society, represented by J. L. R. Boyd, and other civic organizations cooperating in the drive against loan sharks, followed a preliminary conference with the transportation executives and attorneys at which time a committee was chosen to draft the recommendations.

According to the recommendations the transportation companies are to disregard partial assignment of wages presented against their employees' accounts, except in cases where suit is brought by the employer and the employee. In case court action is brought the employer will lend its assistance and legal aid to prevent the collection of illegal sums from its employees.

As a means of forestalling the evil at its source and discouraging workers from entangling themselves more deeply in the loan shark racket, the union will keep the knowledge of these transactions from their employers, it recommended approved at the conference provide that no employee is to be discharged from service by reason of having notice of assignments, or sum of wages, except in flagrant cases. The entire salaries of workers are not to be withheld from the employees by reason of a portion of it being subject to garnishment.

Another preliminary step provided for in the recommendations is the encouragement to be given employees in establishing credit unions of their own.

Discussion on the part of prominent officials of transportation companies having thousands of workers in their employ revealed the knowledge of the evil of the loan shark racket among their workers was more prevalent than generally suspected. According to Mr. Boyd, it was said he had the back of sympathetic understanding on the part of large employers that led workers into the hands of unscrupulous money lenders. For that reason the approval of these recommendations, joining the forces of the employer and worker against the loan sharks will do more to drive out such practices than anything else, it was asserted.

Since the drive against alleged loan sharks in Atlanta was launched several hundred to 20, it was explained at the conference, where assurance was given that the campaign would not be dropped until the loan menace to the workmen and the city as a whole was completely exterminated.

by klansmen who were affiliated with the Knight Riders of Ohio and the Battalion of Death, Ramsey told Gilliam, the priest in Dayton. The alleged beating occurred in the summer of 1926.

Ohio national guardsmen in uniform attended the state meeting of the Klan at Buckeye Lake, August 20 and 30, 1925, Ramsey said, and added that some of the guard officers were affiliated with the order. On one occasion, at Dayton, he said, national guard rifles were provided the grand dragon's guard. Ramsey testified that he was commander of the guard and, the Knight Riders of Ohio, also associated with the Klan, according to the witness.

The real purpose of the state intelligence department of Ohio was principally to control the Klan, according to Ramsey. Members of the grand dragon's guard were members of the intelligence department, he said.

In 1924, the Klan made political slates and supported the successful campaign of Vic Donner, for the governorship, Ramsey declared.

"Radicalism" of some klansmen brought about the riot in Niles, Ohio, in 1924, Ramsey said. Several persons were killed and others injured.

Among the statements Ramsey made were that the Klan in Ohio collected approximately $100,000 and did not spend any of it for charitable purposes; that between $200,000 and $250,000 were collected for a state house which never was constructed and that the Klan in Ohio has more than 400,000 members, but that it had shrunk to about 250,000 in 1926.

Constipation and Biliousness Cause High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is both functional and organic, often produced by over-eating or the mental strain, constipation and biliousness are underlying causes. In either case, Alectox, through a process of elimination, thoroughly cleanses the system of its impurities and tends to reduce pressure in the veins and arteries by carrying out, through the intestinal tract, excess water in the system which the sweat glands have failed to secrete.

After the first dose or two of Alectox you note a decided improvement in reduced blood pressure, also in your general health, because Alectox removes, in one action, more poisons than the system has any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vigorous and alert. Ask any one who has tried it. A full description of the benefits of Alectox is given in the booklet, "Alectox and High Blood Pressure," obtainable from the manufacturer, Dr. J. E. Andrews, 1000 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

DIAMOND QUEEN SELECTS STULTZ FOR OCEAN HOP

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Selection of William Stultz as the pilot for a contemplated trans-Atlantic flight next May was announced today by Miss Mabel Boll.

Miss Boll, who has been called the "Queen of Diamonds" because of the profusion of jewels she owns, was a passenger with Charles A. Levine in a recent flight to Havana on which Stultz was pilot.

Her announcement today was made after a flight with Stultz in a dual control plane. Upon landing she said she expected to make daily flights to qualify for a pilot's license, since she desired to play a more important part than that of a passenger in the long flight.

A year ago Miss Boll showed keen interest in a trans-Atlantic flight and today made public her intention of making a flight to Europe in a plane of $25,000 to pilot Miss Boll. In the letter she said she had hopes of obtaining $50,000 from some one to make the flight.

Sandersville, Ga., March 26.—Owners of dogs in this city are required by ordinance to have them inoculated for rabies prior to April 1 each year. The new ordinance takes effect there. Tags will be issued by the city clerk for 50 cents each after the dog has been inoculated.

A fee of $1.50 is charged for the treatment given by a veterinarian, making the total cost $2 per dog. Mayor Chapman stated that this would virtually stamp out rabies in this city.

... a roof may be water-tight and still leak like a sieve

What's going over the top...when you build your New House?

ONCE upon a time, a roof was only expected to keep out the rain and snow, but nowadays, that is just a third of its job.

It must keep out the blistering heat of the summer sun and keep in the cozy furnace warmth on chilly days.

It must be heat-tight as well as water-tight. Heating Engineers, Architects, Builders, and those who have investigated the matter, all agree that the best and most economical way to make a roof heat-tight is with Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles.

For these remarkable shingles have outer surfaces of durable slate and under surfaces of heat-proof cork!

For one price, in one operation, and at one labor cost your new house can have a roof that will be water-proof, weather-proof, and heat-proof!

And if that isn't going over the top, what is? Let us show you these remarkable new shingles.

THEATER REVIEWS

HODGES HEADLINES
TIP-TOP PROGRAM
SEEN AT CAPITOL

Presenting tip-top entertainment that clicked every minute of the time, the Capitol theater program for this week, Monday night, drew salutes of applause from a crowded house. Jimmie Hodges and his Follies presented "Honey Moon Isle," and Louise Glaum and Wilkins and Wilkins head the big stage bill which is presented in addition to "Soft Living," with Madge Bellamy and Johnny Mack Brown, on the screen.

Mr. Hodges this week offers a vehicle in which he appears more foolish than ever before and when it comes to being nonsensical with an idea of creating a whirlwind of laughter, then the daddy of them all is Jimmie Hodges.

Many beautiful musical numbers are woven in the miniature musical comedy which Mr. Hodges presents, principal among them being the whip-smart number led by Patsy O'Neill, charming blonde lead of the company. The show this week is a complete change from anything Hodges has presented before, with entire new costumes, scenery and routine.

Louise Glaum, famous siren of the screen, doesn't seem half so wicked on the Capitol stage Monday night as she does on the silver screen, and thus another of her illusions. Miss Glaum charmed her audiences with a delightful personality, and entertained them beyond measure, with a playlet entitled "The Web."

The vampire in celluloid also explained why she happened to be cast in such a role as she appeared in the playlet. The witty funny act of Wilkins and Wilkins is one which any sane person would hesitate to put second to any turn on any bill, and in mass applause it was by far the biggest hit of the evening.

The male member of the team has a funny little walking dance which he does in the middle of the act, and this bit stops the show. He closes with another original and equally good dance, but the first one offered would probably serve much better as a closing number. In such a position, the dance would completely stop the show.

Lettie Atherton, a dance artist extraordinary, opens the bill in splendid fashion. —ELMO HAMBY.

HOWARD STAGE ORCHESTRA

Noted Orchestra
Is Sensational
Hit at Georgia

With Henry Santrey and his internationally famous orchestra and entertainers as the entire show, the current program at Keith's Georgia theater promises to be one of the sensations of the year. It is the first all-star "stage band" unit to be shown on the Keith circuit and is, by far, the most enjoyable and entertaining vaudeville program this reviewer has seen in many weeks.

After many years of experience and travel, Mr. Santrey has gathered together 22 excellent musicians, who make up a company which is recognized as one of the stage's most versatile musical organizations. The Monday matinee performance was without a moment's dullness and made a big hit with an unusually large crowd.

One of the features of the show was a Hawaiian steel guitar solo by Harold Alama, a native of Honolulu and a graduate of the University of Hawaii. His playing was well nigh perfect, his repertoire including popular number and "The Rosary," an encore number.

His playing in a duet with Walter E. Soto, harpist, also was a highlight of the program.

Some of the latest dances, including the popular "Varsity Drag," were shown by Miss Fells, John Jennings and Teddy Boyce, said to be among America's greatest dancers.

Harry and Anna Seymour had an important part in the program and introduced a number of clever comedy songs and dances. They also presented a clever comedy skit.

Another of the highlights was a comedy skit entitled, "Cameos in Her Own Theater," by Miss Estelle Fratus, a versatile Australian artist. She offered a number of songs, dances and brief character sketches.

A novelty number in which Mr. Santrey employed a unique method of introducing every member of the company, also proved a big hit with the Monday matinee audience.

"The Heart of a Follies Girl," featuring Billie Dove and Larry Kent in the leading roles, is the feature picture of the week. An interesting news reel also is a part of the program. —ROY E. WHITE.

JOLSON CONTINUES TO DRAW CROWDS
AS 6TH WEEK OPENS

Beginning Monday, its sixth successful and consecutive week's run at the Metropolitan theater, Al Jolson's epic film, "The Jazz Singer," which practically filled the theater.

Announced originally for a two weeks' showing, "The Jazz Singer" has swept beyond the bounds of all records, and it enters its sixth week with the plaudits of large Atlanta audiences for it has captured untold thousands wherever the picture has been shown.

It is the story of a Jewish boy, son of strict orthodox parents, the father a cantor, who wishes to make the boy follow the traditions of the family and become a cantor also. The boy is whipped for singing rag-time songs in a cabaret and leaves home, years later to appear as Jack Robin, rapidly becoming famous as a jazz singer.

The ascension of the product of New York's ghetto to world-wide fame and his final reconciliation with his parents is the story of the picture. It is full of pathos and the romance of a young man who overcomes parental objections and follows his calling, but probably the most notable part of this picture is the work of Jolson as the rising young singer, and the recording of his songs and the music by Vitaphone.

Vitaphone gives a most faithful and life-like reproduction of both the music and Jolson in his famous numbers. Warner Oland, Richard Tucker and May McAvoy have leading roles in the picture. —S. C.

NEW ORLEANS MEN
URGE COOLIDGE TO ALLOW FLOOD AID

Washington, March 26.—(P)—A New Orleans delegation headed by Emile Kuntz, chairman of the Louisiana state republican committee, urged upon President Coolidge today the necessity of flood relief legislation at this session of congress.

The delegation told President Coolidge that they had looked upon the original flood relief measure introduced by Senator Jones of Washington, with great favor.

The revised Jones bill as reported by the senate commerce committee aroused in Kuntz an apprehension that it might not be approved by congress.

The delegation included also Emile Norman, banker of Morgan City; G. A. Peyrefitte; John E. Jackson, "Colonel" Marcel Gaudet, of New Orleans, and Victor Leisel, United States marshal.

DICK BARTHELMESS
GIVES FINEST ROLE
IN HOWARD FILM

Richard Barthelmess, hitherto a player in rather restricted and limited screen roles, goes down into the mud and blood of a French battlefield in "The Patent Leather Kid," current at the Howard, and he emerges an entirely new Barthelmess, albeit a dramatic player and a talented artist of the celluloid.

The transformation is complete and startling, and at the close of the picture one realizes quite absolutely that Barthelmess and never does he look so well before, and that is flying in the face of "Tollable David" and all the rest of his successful pictures.

And by his performance, he kept the capacity audience at the Howard Monday from strolling out of the house murmuring as they passed through the lobby, "Oh, well, just another war picture," and thereby saved "The Patent Leather Kid" from ignominy.

Barthelmess has the role of an east side tough, a prizefighter who hasn't the real sand of courage in his make-up. Flashy, brilliant and impressive when the fight's going his way, but when his nose is smashed, he and the other fellow is feeding it to him, he can't stand and take it.

Scornful, insolent—and afraid, he laughs at the fools who enlist in the army as the mainland of war begins to seethe, and then one day he is handed a conscription slip. He slinks cravenly, but in the end he finds himself in a training camp that is unlike the east side gym.

He goes to France—this "Patent Leather Kid," as called because of his leather—and a hundred times he tries to desert, to sink by the wayside, but he is caught each time. The journey comes in a shell, with his buddy's dead body.

Not new, that situation, in fact, quite old. But it is the rest of the picture, is made outstanding by the pantomime drama of a newly discovered star—Richard Barthelmess.

BARGAIN PROGRAM IS BEING OFFERED
AT LOEW'S GRAND

Whatever corresponds in the theatrical business to a bargain sale in a big department store was launched Monday at Loew's Grand theater, where a special double picture program and a vaudeville bill containing at least three acts in the headline class began a week's engagement. The two pictures are "40,000 Miles With Lindbergh," a historic picture in air navigation, and "Bringing Up Father," the ludicrous farce based on the comic strip.

The first vaudeville headline is "Freeborn's Follies." The special feature of the vaudeville bill is the appearance of Art Gillham, "Amateur Wrangler," while Lew Kelly, comedian, is another headliner.

"Freeborn's Follies" is a pretentious dance offering. It has a special musical score, a special comedy skit and dancing specialties almost innumerable. Gomez and Winona are featured dancing stars and they have kept their work up to the standard of high and which has won for them many cordial receptions in Atlanta. The "Six Dancing Rockets" are six girls who offer some fast stepping.

Art Gillham, in good voice, sings many of the songs which have won fame for him on phonograph records and over the radio. He sings several of his old favorites and one or two new numbers and the crowd Monday night liked his work so well they kept him working overtime.

Fast comedy of the "nut" variety is the chief feature of Lew Kelly's act. It's all nonsense but is cleverly handled and it produced much laughter. Cliff Hall is an able assistant and sings one pretty song number.

Nola and Ryan St. Claire win favor in a comedy song turn. The girls offer a fast line of talk and use two comedy songs effectively. The opening turn is offered by Byron and Gaynor, slaters, who perform some daring feats on a nine-foot pedestal.

The special picture "40,000 Miles With Lindbergh," depicts in full the flying career of the Immortal American hero. It begins with views of the first take-off for Paris and follows the career of Lindbergh through his trips to Central and South America. Many graphic scenes of the reception accorded Lindbergh in foreign countries as well as in leading cities of this country are shown. A map is flashed now and then showing the extent of the flying tour made by the famous flier. —PAUL STEVENSON.

Maynard Holmes, Oglethorpe Boy, Finds Limelight

BY FRED MEACHIN.
The proverbial "rocky road" to movieland, which has proved impassable for thousands of ambitious, amateur actors in their attempt to reach stardom, turned out to be a short, smooth path for a former Oglethorpe university student, Maynard Holmes, who, while attending college here, resided at 219 Spring street, Decatur.

The very unusual accomplishment of this 19-year-old Atlantan reads more like a fairy story or a scenario for a fantastic movie than a page from real life.

Last August young Holmes decided to hike to Chicago and make an effort to get in the movies. After much persuasion he succeeded in securing the permission of his mother, Mrs. Jessie Holmes Ashley, chief clerk of the Hartford Accident & Indemnity company. Buckling a pack on his back he started north with hopes high. Four days later he arrived in Chicago. The youthful hiker was quite fortunate in "bumming" rides, thereby expediting his journey.

Maynard Holmes was at all familiar with the big city but he soon found the location of movie studios. After a few weeks of diligent canvassing he was selected from a score of applicants to play the lead in a series of comedy pictures being filmed by the Spiegel Production company.

He has completed the first of the pictures, to be known as "The Freshman series," and is now at home on a short visit. The pictures are booked for release this summer and probably will be shown at the Capitol theater here.

Holmes' role, he says, will be that of a fat boy with plenty of money, a raccoon coat, an expensive automobile.

POLICE HOLD PAIR TO PROBE RECORDS

Colorado Springs, Col., March 26.—(P)—A former Utah university co-ed said by police to have been trained in the use of firearms by her husband and who admitted she knew he was engaged in liquor traffic, was held in jail with him here today in connection with the investigation of a series of crimes including a slaying in California.

The couple were arrested yesterday here where they were known as Mr. and Mrs. James Shannon. The woman was later identified as Grace Winckmann, 27, who on leaving the University of Utah, became society editor of a Salt Lake City paper. Shannon admitted he was known to coast police as Albert H. Adams, and, according to his confession, confessed to several robberies.

When Shannon told Chief of Police Hugh D. Harper that he had robbed a bank at Murray, Utah, of $4,000 and also had looted banks in Los Angeles, his wife declared she was "amazed."

She told Chief Harper that her husband had informed her he was running whisky to make a stake with which to buy a ranch where they could "settle down," but never had told her about any of the crimes which he confessed. She declared she would "stand by him to the limit."

In describing the couple and asking their arrest, Salt Lake officers warned authorities here to take precautions in accepting them. Six detectives armed with shotguns were told her about any of the crimes which he confessed. She declared she would "stand by him to the limit."

WOMAN MISSING.
HER FAMILY FEARS
LOSS OF MEMORY.

Mrs. Lula Brand, 58, of 1014 Crew street, has been missing from her home since early Monday morning, according to members of her family, who fear that she has suffered an attack of amnesia. When last seen she was wearing a black coat trimmed with white fur. Any information as to her whereabouts will be appreciated if telephoned to Walnut 7653 or Main 5486-W.

of her sister, Eunice McCrae, 240 Washington street, under treatment for a nervous collapse as the result of her worry over her husband's absence. Miss McCrae said Monday.

"Dr. Young must be suffering from amnesia, for he complained of feeling as though he had a blood clot on his brain when he left Waycross for Atlanta," Miss McCrae said. "So far as the reported marriage to Mrs. Walker is concerned, Dr. Young was not at all intimate with her in Waycross, except as the pastor of her church, and we had absolutely no information that anything like this was going to happen. It came so suddenly after 20 years of happy married life that it has completely prostrated my sister."

"Dr. Young was a most faithful husband and father, entirely devoted to his family, and the only theory that he has is that he has suffered amnesia from overwork," Miss McCrae said. "Dr. Young exhausted himself in building up the church, and was considered the best pastor the church had ever had," she said. "Waycross is profoundly overcome by the disappearance," she said.

Waycross, Ga., March 26.—(Special)—The legal tangle resulting from the disappearance March 1 of the Rev. Herbert D. Young, former pastor of the Central Baptist church here, was further involved today when relatives of Mrs. Eva Pearl Walker, whom the missing pastor's wife is suing for alienation of affections, filed suit for recovery of certain letters and telegrams.

Attorneys for Mrs. Walker, a 33-year-old widow who left Waycross one day prior to the departure of the Rev. Mr. Young, in recovery proceedings seek to recover a letter, a post card and a telegram sent by the widow to relatives here containing information showing they say, that Mrs. Walker was in Covington, Ky., on March 2 and again on March 6.

Information on which the alienation suit of Mrs. Young is based is to the effect that a E. Herbert D. Young and a Mrs. E. P. Walker were married in Meridian, Miss., on March 3. It is the contention of local relatives of the woman that these communications post-marked from the Kentucky town, show that she is not the Mrs. Walker who was involved in the Meridian marriage.

Counsel for Mrs. Walker's relatives here also announce their intention of endeavoring to have the court increase the bond required for Mrs. Young's release from the alienation proceedings. Under the law bond of twice the amount sued for must be made. In this case Mrs. Young seeks $10,000 and her husband's widow, her erstwhile neighbor and friend.

It was further stated by Mrs. Walker's counsel here that in the event that the wife of the missing minister fails to provide her charge of alienation of affections, a counter suit will be filed against her.

Meantime, Mrs. Young was visiting relatives in Atlanta, and she said she is in a highly nervous condition. Since the disappearance of her husband Mrs. Young has suffered several breakdowns.

According to information made public several days ago, the woman who, under the name of Mrs. E. P. Walker, was "Rev. Herbert D. Young," was accompanied by a small girl. One of the items of mail which are sought by local relatives in the alienation proceedings is a post card bearing the signature of the 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Walker, postmarked from Covington, Ky., and dated March 2. Court attaches and others who witnessed the reported ceremonies at Meridian revealed that the couple purchased a car in which they left the Mississippi city for an unannounced destination.

A week ago the congregation of the Central Baptist church here voted to declare vacant the pulpit which up to his disappearance had been occupied by the Rev. Mr. Young. At the same time it was announced that the reward that had been offered withdrawn and reoffered by the deacons of the church for information as to the whereabouts of the pastor, was finally withdrawn.

REED DENOUNCE
ADMINISTRATION

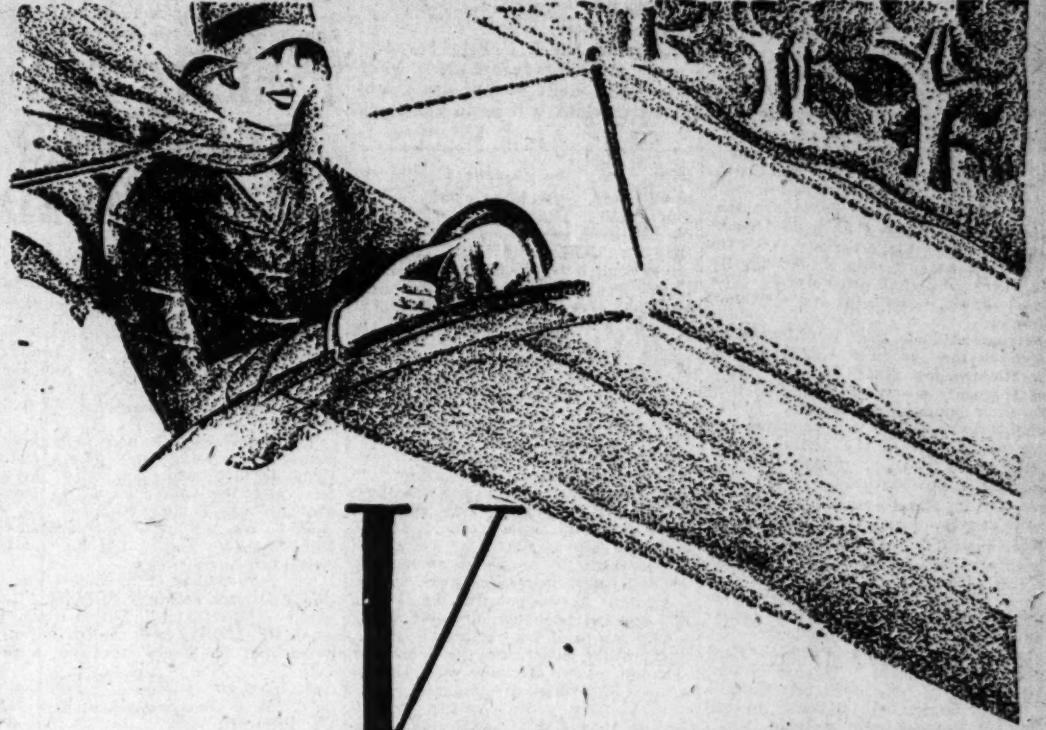

High Point, N. C., March 26.—(P) Dishonesty, fraud, favoritism and corruption must be wiped out of the national government and United States, Senator James A. Reed asserted here tonight in a public address in the interest of his candidacy for the democratic nomination for president.

Assailing President Coolidge for not ousting Andrew W. Mellon from his cabinet and charging that Mellon dictates the policies of the nation, the Missouri senator asserted that his interest was "impartial."

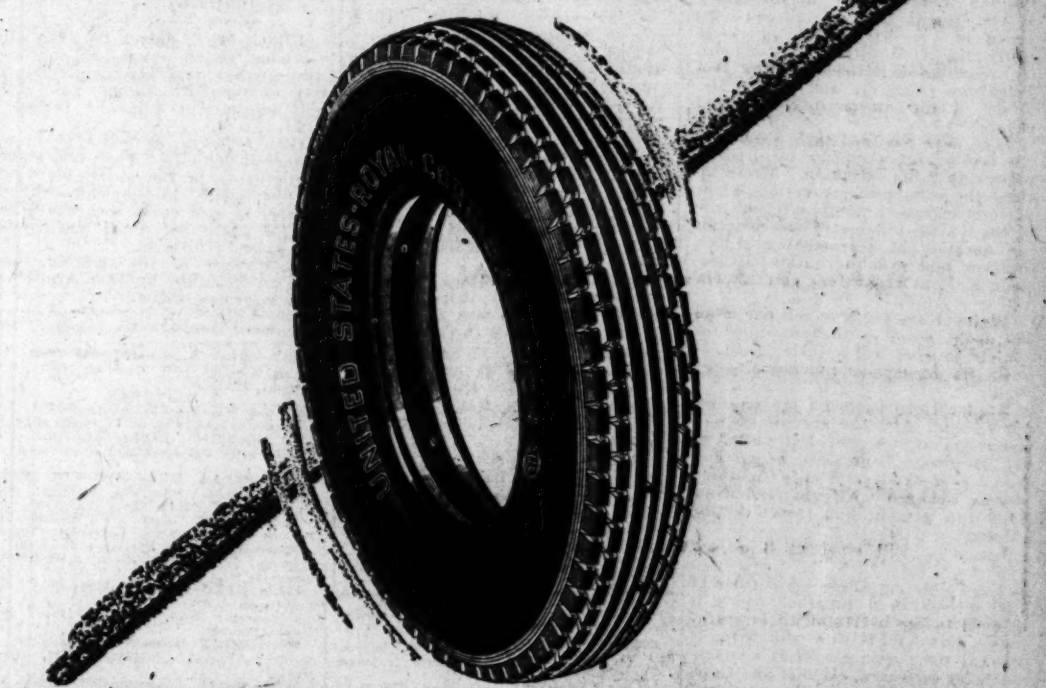

"My interest is solely an attempt to reestablish honesty and decency at Washington," he said. "There is a great difference between good republicans and good democrats. Nobody proposes to visit the sins of the managers of the republican party upon the innocent heads of the people who compose the mass of the republican voters. If, however, the republicans are turned out and honest men put in benefits flow to the republicans and democrats alike; so that the turning out of office of republican rascals is in the interest of a common benefit."

Three Atlantans Survive Opening Round at Augusta

Crackers Release Carl Spencer, Pitcher, to Macon Peaches

Jack Simpson Loses Opener To N. Y. Star

Gate City Boys Expected To Face Stiff Competition in Second Round.

BY WHITNEY CARY.
Constitution Staff Correspondent.
Bon Air Vanderbilt Hotel, Augusta, Ga., March 26.—Atlanta's tennis expeditionary force met the first round assault in the South Atlantic championship, which began today on the courts of the Augusta Country club, with only 25 per cent casualties.

Bryan Grant, Macon Courts and Jack Simpson, the fourth member of the Gate City quartet who was pitted against Dr. William Rosenbaum, the well known metropolitan player, found the going a trifle too fast and although putting up a good game, fell before the New Yorker, 8-6, 6-3. All the rest of the matches of the opening round went according to form and not a single upset marks the score board at the conclusion of the first day. While the play of the victorious Atlantans was not up to mid-season form due to the fact that none of them had much practice since last season, they had enough to tuck the first round encounters away without very serious effort.

Victorians.
Bryan Grant met Bill Barrett, a young local player, and although Bryan was playing very erratically, he was home at 6-2, 6-2. Macon Courts made short work of another Augusta player, A. D. Tobin, winning 6-1, 6-2. Mooney defeated Ernest Weiman, of Charleston, with the loss of but one game in each set.

With the first round matches out of the way, the going for the Gate City boys appears better with greater obstacles. At least one of them will go out of competition tomorrow, for Jack Mooney and Macon Courts have now reached that stage in the draw where they face each other. Bryan Grant, although exhibiting a very erratic game today, should flash enough tomorrow in his second round encounter to beat George Meyers, the Mobile player. Should Grant get through this match his probable next opponent will be Dr. Rosenbaum. The metropolitan doctor appears as Bryan's hardest obstacle on the way to the quarter finals, where if he does true according to seeding, Frank Shields, the present national junior champion, will be waiting. Mooney and Courts are in the lower half. The winner of their match appears to have a good chance of going to the quarter final. On reaching this milestone international complications loom in the form of Tami Abe, the Japanese Davis cup player.

Abe is a trifle shy on practice, but showed a sparkling brand of ground

A CRACKER A DAY TO-DAY

TOM ROGERS Pitcher.
BY BEN COTHMAN

"They won't make 'em much wiser than Tom Rogers," was the comment recently of a man who has been actively connected with the baseball industry for quite some time. Tom, whose picture you may see by directing your glance to the next column, is beginning his third year with the Crackers. There are some people who say that Tom is too old to pitch Class A baseball.

Well, a man's arm may go back on him when he isn't so young any more. But his gray matter never goes back on him, and Tom uses his head when pitching. Take for instance the occasion last year in Mobile when, with a game tied and a Mobile man circling the bases with the winning run, Tom held him up at third and kept the score tied.

It was back in 1914 that Tom fessional. It was the Nash-strokes this afternoon to beat Col. Wait O. Johnson, the Fort Benning ace, 6-1, 6-3.

George Lott, number three ranking player of this country, who is seeded first in this tournament and who is the strong favorite to win the title, disposed of J. M. Lewin, of New York, 6-3, 6-2, while Johnny Doe, eighth ranking player and seeded second, had little trouble beating Walton Harper, of Weimar, 6-2, 6-2.

Complete results of the first day's play follow.

Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, beat J. P. Stockton, New York, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Lieutenant J. Hedkin, Fort McPherson, Ga., defeated Frank Capers, Augusta, 6-4, 6-0.

F. Harris, University of Florida, won over Ralph Griffin, University of Georgia, 6-1, 6-2.

L. B. Rice, Newton Center, Mass., defeated Bill Deas, Augusta, 6-1, 6-1.

Norman Johnson, New York, defeated W. Silcox, Charleston, S. C., 6-1, 6-0.

George Lott, Chicago, defeated J. M. Lewin, New York, 6-3, 6-2.

George Meyers, Mobile, defeated Lansing Lee, Augusta, 6-2, 6-1.

Tami Abe, Japanese singles champion, defeated Colonel Wait Johnson, Fort Benning, Ga., 6-1, 6-3.

Allan Behr, New York, defeated H. B. Garrett, Augusta, 6-2, 6-2.

Walter Fargis, Augusta, defeated Jack Bentley, Charlotte, N. C., 6-3, 6-4.

Macon Courts, Atlanta, defeated A. D. Tobin, Jr., Augusta, 6-1, 6-2.

Dr. William Rosenbaum, New York, defeated Jack Simpson, Atlanta, 8-6, 6-3.

Jack Mooney, Atlanta, defeated Ernest Weiman, Charleston, 6-1, 6-1.

Ray Coffin, Philadelphia, and Robert Baker, Columbia, S. C., won by default.

Frank X. Shields, Ralph Bagg and Fred Bagg, all of New York, advanced through the first round by default.

TOM ROGERS.

Rogers began his career as a pro-volunteer and he stayed there until the fall of 1916, when the St. Louis Cardinals bought him and sold him to Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy of the w. k. Athletics. The Athletics kept him until the fall of 1919, with Tom getting good games out of his system regularly.

In 1919 he was sold to Buffalo, of the International league, and stayed there for a year, going back into the big time, on this occasion with the Yankees. The Yanks hung onto him for a year and a half and then sold him to St. Paul, of the American association.

In the fall of 1922 Memphis sent out an SOS call for pitchers and got Rogers from St. Paul. At the close of the 1924 season Tom was purchased by Chattanooga, remained there for one year, was bought by the Crackers and has been here since that time.

Rogers was late in reporting this season, having been forced to take time out for an operation on his nose, occasioned by sinus trouble. He came through okay, says he is in great shape and feels that he'll win several games for Atlanta whenever Bert decides to send in a right-handed pitcher.

Tom was born on February 12, 1894, at Sparta, Tenn., which is right up in the heart of the Great Smokies. He is around 6 feet in height and weighs 180 pounds.

Niehoff Holds Long Signal Drill Monday

Billy Rhiel and Johnny Jones Report for Workout With Squad Monday.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
A training lineup took the field Monday afternoon at Spiller's. Frankie Zoeller appeared at the plate. Sports writers in Colonel Spiller's office glanced out the window, saw what was going on, grabbed score books and made a wild dash for the dug-out.

Frankie cracked one on the nose and was out at first easily. But he remained parked on the bag. The war correspondents asked among themselves, "What kind of a function might this be?"

It developed that Skipper Niehoff was holding a dummy scrimmage, signal drill, or whatever you might call it, the thing a man supposes to be in third position would trip up to the plate and find that he had a couple of strikes and three balls on him, with two runners on first and third. Bert would give the signal for a certain play.

This took the place of the regular practice game and continued for some time. There will probably be several more between now and the opening of the season in order that the Crackers may get their signals straight.

Billy Rhiel, the "Double Dutch" man, cracked one over the pitcher's box, second base and into center field. Tax your memory a bit and you'll recall that Billy did that quite often last year.

Rhiel, like West, Tremper and Lopez, who reported Friday, was gracefully sporting a coat of that Florida tan, having acquired it at Clearwater, and seemed to be in A-1 condition. Jones hasn't done any work this season, having remained in the hospital since the winter. He was in the hospital since the winter. He was in the hospital since the winter.

Jones didn't have such an impressive batting average last season, but then, it isn't a matter so much of how well a shortstop can hit, it's how he can field. The newcomer indulged in no fielding practice Monday, other than a pepper game or so, but he is said to be quite adept at starting double plays.

The present squad was cut down by one Monday when Colonel Spiller sent the four who were in the hospital to the hospital. The Crackers will jump back to Atlanta in time to work out Friday and prepare for the exhibition affair with the St. Louis Cardinals, of the National league, here Saturday afternoon.

Provided the weather remains fair, the Skipper will probably send the squad through a practice game this afternoon. The present lineup in games between the regulars and yanigans stands at 3-1 in favor of the regulars, with one game ending in a 6-6 tie. This last took place Thursday.

Pick-Ups

Billy Rhiel, Johnny Jones and Max West were hatless—capless, rather—Monday. Sam, colored groundskeeper, who looks after equipment for the players, had run out of caps. First West, then Rhiel, came prancing out of the dressing room minus caps. They looked at each other and then at the groundskeeper, who was standing near the dug-out playing a game of catch observed, but said nothing. Then Jones came dashing out also minus a hat. "Well, the whole—squad must be turning collegiate," announced Paul.

Alphonse Lopez, flashy-looking young catcher who came to Atlanta from Jacksonville, of the Southern league, by way of Clearwater and the Brooklyn Dodgers, was missing at practice Monday, being confined to his bed with a touch of fever. He is expected to be out today.

Since announcing to the public at large that he was the first ball out southpaw to pitch the first ball of the opening day game, Skipper Niehoff said Monday that he had received numerous answers. He's turning them all over to Paul Barcroft, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce opening-day committee.

"Gee," said the skipper, "everybody in this town must be left-handed."

Billy Rhiel got quite a hand as he made his appearance at the plate during batting practice Monday. He did considerable clouting for the Crackers last season and those fans gathered at the park Monday were glad to see him back.

With the arrival of Rhiel and Jones there are only two more players to be heard from. Fred Brainerd, second baseman, is still herding sheep in New Mexico and will be here the latter part of May. Chuck Corgan, shortstop, is in Chicago having a lame back treated, and is expected to be here next week.

Cox, Williams Work Hard for Bout Here
Working with enthusiasm and rather eager to be in trim that they might back up the statement that they will be in shape to give an even better fight than one held recently, Eddie Cox, local negro, and Benny Williams, a fast running into shape for their 10-round scuffle at the Sunset park Thursday evening.

Kid Davis, promoter of the show, also remarked that he is confident the boys will entertain the fans much better than in the last meeting, even though their last scrap was the liveliest held by the negroes here in some time.

HAWK-EYEING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

Foul Balls.

Tom Angley's failing on foul balls may buy him a ticket back to Macon for a bit more seasoning. There is something about catching a foul ball that halts the career of many a promising backstop.

To the layman a foul ball seems to be much easier to catch than a long fly to the outfield. To those who think thus we recommend a personal trial. A foul ball against a "high sky" seems to be endowed with all the personal habits of the snake and grasshopper. Naturally, being foul, it is hit with considerable "english" and never comes down from the apex of its flight in a straight line. If a catcher could figure out from one foul ball just where the next one hit in the same direction would descend the matter would be easy, but no two of them act alike.

The outfielder sees the ball leave the bat and after he gets a certain amount of experience he can tell almost within a yard where the ball will hit. He decides in the first few yards of the ball's flight where he will have to be to make the catch. A catcher must take off his mask, locate the ball and never take his eyes from it in the course of its flight. He must be able to reverse quickly to follow the vagaries of a foul flight, and lastly must be able to hold a rapidly whirling ball in a mitt not intended for catching fly balls.

Several years ago a catcher named Boone came to the camp of the Detroit Tigers at New Orleans. He was a big fellow with a bullet arm and considerable batting ability but he could not catch foul balls. Hughie Jennings often stood for an hour after practice batting balls high into the air for the catcher and it was nothing out of the ordinary to see Boone stand dumfounded while the ball came down at least six feet from where he was standing. His failing kept him out of the majors.

Tom Angley is not the only catcher who has trouble with catching foul balls and he will probably recover from that failing with experience, but he will have to do so if he wants to go up.

Prospect.

Kid Clay, the Little Napoleon of Dixie college diamonds, has a way of turning out ball players who are snatched up by professional baseball just as fast as they leave. This year's team has at least three who will have a good chance to step out if they so desire. One of the best prospects is Shorty Smith, diminutive shortstop for the Jacks.

Shorty may even now be considering overtures from a professional outfit and then again he may not even consider professional baseball regardless of what offers he may get. That is not here nor there. The fact remains that Shorty Smith is one of those lads with a natural instinct for playing baseball. He looks good year after year and this season he looks better. Speed is natural to him and a strong throwing arm adds considerably to the asset of speed. He is cool on the bases and is steadily developing under the tutelage of Kid Clay into a more than passable hitter. Shorty has a great future if he chooses to take advantage of it.

Mexico Selects Teams To Face Americans

Mexico City, March 25.—(AP)—Mexico will have a three-man team in the Davis cup contests with the United States here. It will be composed of Robert G. Kinsey, former Californian; Alfonso Unda, and Ricardo Tapia. Tapia is only 18 years old, but Kinsey, who has been coaching him for several years, considers him the most promising player in Mexico. He and Kinsey played the doubles together in Mexico's Davis cup series with Japan at St. Louis last year, and they are expected to team up against the United States doubles team. Unda and Kinsey will appear in the singles.

The three began working out in earnest today and they will continue intensive training until the eve of the contest.

THE PROBLEM

The sums total of the figures on each of the three elephants pictured herewith are to be given as a solution. You can find the sum total of each elephant by adding up the figures of each. The figures 1, 2, and 3 in the circles in the upper left hand corners of the elephants are simply to identify them. These figures have nothing to do with the elephants' weights.

In submitting your solution you must identify the three elephants by their numbers and give the weights of each. A complete solution means that you are to find the sum total of each elephant. It takes the sum total of each to make one solution. This is a game of skill and not a guessing contest.

There are no "1's" or "eighths" in the elephants. There are no groups of figures, that is, the figure "9" is the highest figure shown. There are no "2's," "5's" or "9's," or like groups. If you find a "2" and a "3" are written so closely together that it looks like "23," it means that "2" and "3" are to be added—just as you would if they were an inch apart.

The tops of the "6's" are distinctly curved, and the bottom of the "9's" are straight or nearly so. There is no trick or illusion in the charts.

GENERAL RULES OF THE CONTEST

1. This contest is open only to residents of Georgia and adjoining states. Both old and new subscribers may enter. No employee or member of an employee's family of The Atlanta Constitution will be allowed to participate in the contest, nor any of the prize winners that have won prizes in excess of $100.00 in any of the elephant contests heretofore conducted by The Atlanta Constitution.
2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they may desire, provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution; but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one prize. Once registered a solution cannot be changed. NO SOLUTION UNACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.
3. The Atlanta Constitution offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household or several friends to work together, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When, in the judgment of the contest manager or The Atlanta Constitution, more than one member of the same family or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together, send in a solution of the puzzle, the right is reserved to refund the amount of money paid for subscription and return the solution if it is believed has been submitted contrary to the rules.
4. The Atlanta Constitution reserves the right at any time to reject any solution which it believes has not been submitted under the proper conditions. In other words, any group of persons working together and submitting more than one solution, all submitted by the group will be barred. The Atlanta Constitution also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise in this contest, and participants by sending in their answers agree to accept the decision of the contest manager of The Atlanta Constitution as conclusive and final.
5. In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prize are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more people should tie in the best solution, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them, and they will be awarded in order of the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the best solution will be awarded the first prize, the next best second and the third best third prize, etc.
6. All solutions with remittances must be delivered to the office of The Atlanta Constitution by 6:00 p. m., Thursday, March 29, 1928, or mailed at any post office in Georgia or adjoining states, bearing postmark of no later date than March 29.
7. The subscription rate of the daily and Sunday Constitution is $5.00 for six months, $9.50 for twelve months. All subscriptions in this contest must be paid in advance. Nothing less than six months' subscription will be accepted, and not more than twelve months' subscription is required. A subscription can be sent to one person and the solution credited to another, but the complete address of both must be given in each instance. This contest begins Thursday, Feb. 8, and ends Thursday, March 29, 1928. A subscriber, new or renewal, can submit a solution with his or her remittance of $5.00 for six months or $9.50 for twelve months subscription to the daily and Sunday Constitution. No additional qualifying remittance for subscriptions will be required after the closing of the elephant solving contest on March 29th.

How to Win $1,500.00

To enter this contest it is necessary to send but one paid-in-advance subscription to the daily and Sunday Constitution for six months with $5.00, but you can increase the amount of the prize money that you will receive if you are a winner. For instance, with a $5.00 remittance and six months' subscription, should you win first prize the amount paid would be $500.00, but if the winner of first prize has qualified with a remittance of $9.50 for twelve months' subscription, the prize will be $1,500.00 instead of $500.00.

$500.00 will be awarded to the winner of first prize provided one six months' subscription to the daily and Sunday Constitution with $5.00 remittance is sent, new or renewal, $250.00 for second prize, $125.00 for third prize, etc.

$1,500.00 instead of $500.00 will be awarded to the winner of first prize provided one yearly subscription to the daily and Sunday Constitution is sent with $9.50, either new or renewal; second prize, $1,000.00; third prize, $500.00, etc. See last column in prize list. All subscriptions in this contest must be paid in advance.

In case of ties, a second puzzle, like the accompanying chart, except larger, will be presented for those tied to solve. The problem will consist of drawing a continuous chain across the chart encircling the figures in the circles. If necessary to eliminate further ties, the puzzle, with combinations changed, will be presented for as many as five more times, after which, should any ties exist, each tying contestant will receive the full amount of any prizes tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting elephants no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

Applicants should give name in full, state age and occupation, and when a beneficiary is given be sure to state full Christian name and relationship to the insured.

This insurance feature is separate and independent, and has no connection whatsoever with the elephant contest. Those subscribing for twelve months are eligible to this insurance if desired, but it is entirely optional. This is a feature that is offered to all subscribers of the daily and Sunday Constitution.

Closing Date

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close
Thursday, March 29, 1928.

Here Is The Great Prize List

Note: The value of the prize depends on how much you pay on your subscription with your solution in the triplet elephant game. The amount paid will be applied to the daily and Sunday Constitution: Daily only or tri-weekly subscriptions not accepted in this contest, and no solution will be registered unless accompanied by at least $5.00 for six months' subscription. The least amount is $5.00 for six months' subscription, or the largest amount required is $9.50 for twelve months' subscription.

Both the solution and subscription must be sent in at the same time in same envelope.

	Prize if 6 mos. sub. new or renewal with $5.00 is sent.	Prize if 12 mos. sub. new or renewal with $9.50 is sent.

Second Prize	250.00	1,000.00

Fourth Prize	75.00	250.00
Fifth Prize	40.00	100.00
Sixth Prize	20.00	50.00
Seventh to Thirtieth Prizes	5.00	25.00
Total	$1,130.00	$4,000.00

Important Facts To Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning an award, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win, as the value of these awards is determined by what the winners submit in subscription money. This is explained in the awards list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution. The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning an award. Accuracy is what counts. Not more than one award will be awarded to any one person.

MANLEY TO FACE TRIAL APRIL 1

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

Ask Mother Another, "When God made me did he stir me up in a pan?" "How did he stick on my toes and fingers?" "Is daddy a bootlegger?" "Why am I a girl and not a boy?" "How do birds that aren't caught sleep?"

All these brainiesters in one evening and from one child. How shall we answer them?

Now let's see. How about trying: "Oh shut up, will you, or else go to bed." "Can't you see that daddy is reading the paper and is tired?" "You won't understand and anyhow my daddy when you're a big girl mamma'll tell you" (the most common words in the dictionary for little people).

How will it work? Fine. Papa can finish his sporting page, mother her story of "The Confessions of a Girl Who Left Home." Momma's precious darling who can just bet will find out for herself.

Of course we may not like the manner in which she discovers things in the little dog-out and little Billie built in the back yard, nor the wrong slant she gets on life because confidence in her parents' patience and knowledge has been shattered. But of course, never mind: "What a child doesn't know won't hurt her."

"Some day I'll hand her a book and let her read it for herself," forgetting that what we do not know is often the very thing which does harm us and that to hand out suddenly a big bunch of information is like watering a plant once a year.

"Curiosity is the mother of all knowledge and the nuisance of all mothers." We can stop it quickly by the shut-upping process. "Is daddy a bootlegger?" coming from the fact that the father wore high riding boots, needed the answer: "No, darling, he doesn't keep a bottle in his boots like those who carried bottles in olden days of horseback riding."

We must discourage questions which are not worth encouraging like, "Where is papa?" "In San Francisco." "Why?" "Gone on business." "Why?" "Because we need the money?" "Why?" "Why?" "Why?" "A child that gets this habit is starting on the road to 'making conversation' useful only in the conversation indulged in an afternoon call when the host wishes the visitor would go and the visitor wishes to heaven that she could discover some way to go.

A sincere parent must learn how to say, "I don't know," but add, "How would it do to find out?" "Why am I a girl and not a boy," however, requires more research and brings less satisfaction than perhaps any other child question.

How embarrassed we are when dimmy darling wants to know whether babies come from mixing pans, doctors' bags, lawyers' brief cases or black crows! How we duck the questions! The intelligent child by our manner sees very quickly that there's something not quite right about her question. What does she do? Forget it? No wiser.

The child merely wants to know where babies originate, just as it wants to know about God, stars, snow, tadpoles or anything else.

Only by having ourselves a clean and fine understanding attitude toward sex can we attempt to answer. In proportion as we ourselves shake off acquired and hampering attitudes we will develop a vocabulary of truth mixed with idealism and a knowledge tempered by common sense.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER

Brain Dope.

How can I keep from becoming mentally fat?

Home Girl.

Answer—Glad to meet one who realizes she is fat in places other than her mind.

Mentally fat people are those who feel themselves on brain dope. Whenever any statement is made to you, whether from a shop window which says, "Buy Boggles Soap," to a news bulletin, "Mayor Buggins Must Go," whisper to yourself "Why?" Get into the habit of analyzing plays, books, people, news, advertisements.

My free "Reading with a Purpose" list gives lots of whys and wherefores. You can for the always indispensable stamped, addressed return envelope.

"Eighteen—By all means tell your mother. It is going to be awfully hard, I know, but she will find out and there are things to be done now."

Evidently Boys Need Chaperons.

How can we keep vulgar girls from ruining our boys?

Devoted Mother.

Answer—We'll have to have a similar set of precautions for the boys which we had in the former eighties for the girls. They must not let any girl speak to them without introduction. A boy must not go on the street unaccompanied by another boy nor to a dance without a male chaperon. Every boy must have his mail opened by his father. This complaint of mother indicates, as have several prominent writers, that the female of the species is to predominate. By teaching your boy good taste and developing his character you will give him the only true safeguard. Then vulgar girls will not appeal to him.

MEMORIAL BODY RECEIVER SOUGHT

Charging insolvency to the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association, four Atlanta women, as taxpayers, Monday petitioned Fulton superior court to enjoin the city and county from contributing to the project on the ground that the association was incapable of completing the work and asked that a receiver be appointed.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore issued a temporary order restraining further donations by city or county until the case can be heard before him on April 7.

A similar petition, filed in DeKalb superior court by the same plaintiffs, Mrs. Corrie Smith, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Mrs. Virginia Mae Phillips and Mrs. J. S. Nichols, was dismissed Saturday for lack of jurisdiction by Judge John B. Hutcheson.

Petitioners claim the city has contributed $50,000 and the county $10,000 to the project since March, 1924, and that the full $100,000 pledge of each will be paid unless the court intervenes.

In contending the association was insolvent, the plaintiffs set forth that it owed the city and county the amounts already appropriated on the ground the donations were without constitutional authority which provides how taxpayers' monies can be expended.

Under the petition, Judge Moore also temporarily restrained the city and county from making payment of any funds for unveiling exercises, which are scheduled for April 9 at Stone Mountain, and prohibited the association from soliciting funds from these sources until the hearing.

Attorney John I. Kelley, of Lawrenceville, state senator who led a fight to investigate the association at the last legislature, and Scott Canler, of Decatur, are plaintiffs' counsel.

But the nearer he got to that tree the slower he moved. Finally he stopped and looked back at the hollow tree. "Perhaps I won't have to go clear over to the Old Orchard," thought he. "Perhaps I won't have to go any farther than the edge of the Green Forest. It won't do any harm to go that far away. I would like to know about those cousins of mine, if I've got any, who live down in that hollowed-out tree. Scrapper the Kingbird passes through on his way to his winter home. Probably it's all stuff and nonsense, but I should like to know what he says. I could talk to Scrapper I could soon tell if he was talking the truth."

Bobby Coon looked back. Then he turned and looked up at the hollow tree, for he had almost reached it. Within was a soft bed. Bobby thought of that bed longingly. And neglecting of the starlit heavens nothing short of crime.
So he takes his dancing partner (in a satin gleaming white)

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Curiosity Masters Bobby Coon.

The curious are disinclined.

The feelings of their friends to mind.

—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit had left Bobby Coon at the Laughing Brook in the Green Forest. Peter was disappointed. He was quite disappointed. He had hoped to learn from Bobby Coon more about Bobby's cousins in the sunny south, but he had learned nothing at all. That was because Bobby didn't know anything about those cousins. Until Peter had mentioned them Bobby had never heard of them. He pretended not to believe in them. But just as soon as Peter was out of sight Bobby Coon started off through the Green Forest. He had forgotten all about fishing. He was just as full of curiosity as Peter was.

"I wonder where I'll find Scrapper, the Songbird," muttered Bobby to himself. "I must talk him into coming here from his own mouth these things that Peter has been telling me about. I suppose Scrapper is up in the Old Orchard. That is no place for me. I won't go over there."

Bobby resolutely turned about and started off in another direction. He was heading for a certain hollow tree where he intended to sleep the remainder of the day. But the nearer he got to that tree the slower he moved. Finally he stopped and looked back at the hollow tree. "Perhaps I won't have to go clear over to the Old Orchard," thought he. "Perhaps I won't have to go any farther than the edge of the Green Forest. It won't do any harm to go that far away. But he knew that if he should curl up in it he couldn't go to sleep. He knew that curiosity wouldn't let him go to sleep. Once more he looked back. Then he turned and slowly began to retrace his steps. He was going over to the edge of the Green Forest where it adjoins the Old Orchard on the chance that Scrapper the Kingbird might happen along that way.

When Bobby reached the edge of the Green Forest he peeped forth very cautiously. He could hear the voice of Scrapper the Kingbird. Scrapper was not far away. The longer he listened the more Bobby wanted to go over there.

there. But it was broad daylight and the Old Orchard was no place for him in broad daylight.

"What are you doing over here, Bobby Coon?" said a voice just back of him.

Bobby whirled about. There sat Peter Rabbit. "Whatever I'm doing it's no business of yours, Peter Rabbit," said he, crossly.

"I know what you're over here for," said Peter.

"What?" demanded Bobby.

"You've come over here to try to see Scrapper the Kingbird. You want to find out if I told you the truth. You've got just as much curiosity as I have. Shall I go over and tell Scrapper you want to see him?"

"No," snapped Bobby.

"All right," said Peter. "Just as you say. I'm going over to ask him some more about that long-nosed cousin of yours, Scrapper says they call him Nosey."

"Huh!" said Bobby. "He's no cousin of mine."

"You're sure you don't want me to send Scrapper over here?" said Peter.

"N-o-o-o," said Bobby, so slowly that Peter laughed out.

"I'll send him anyway," said he.

CAREY DEALERS WILL MEET TODAY

Over 100 Georgia dealers of the Philip Carey company, each representing a different territory of the state, today will hold a one-day sales meeting at the Henry Grady hotel.

The meeting is sponsored by the Philip Carey company of Cincinnati, Ohio, and its Atlanta branch, E. O. Perry, district manager of the local branch, will be presiding, being assisted by his associates, R. E. Rhamstine, E. S. Sanford and E. R. Cook, Jr.

The program of the day includes addresses by three nationally-known merchandising and promotion experts and a motion picture of the big Carey factory at Cincinnati. This will be followed in the evening with a banquet at the Henry Grady hotel, from which the dealers will go in a body to a show. The motion picture of the plant will be an unusual feature of this year's meeting, having elicited many expressions of interest from dealers who are interested in seeing the process of manufacture of the materials they handle.

C. H. Walker, heading the list of speakers, is sales manager of the dealer division of the Philip Carey company at Cincinnati. Other speakers will be R. A. Gaines, head of the roofing paint department, and A. H. Moore, head of the rigid asbestos products department, both from the home office.

The Philip Carey company is one of the largest manufacturers of composition and rigid asbestos roofings and shingles in the country, its products being widely distributed through branches and distributors throughout the country.

talk before a body of women. An attractive woman, radiating health and therefore normal weight—came up to me.

"Doctor, do you remember that article you wrote two years ago in the magazine on weight reduction? I want you to know I gained 30 pounds by following its directions! Naturally, I reversed them, as you advised. I had an awful fight to make myself eat more, but I worked up to 3,000 calories a day, then I never allowed myself to retire unless I tucked away my 5,000. In a little over a year, I was up to normal weight, and what was more important, I regained my health."

You can do this, too.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the columns in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

A LITTLE ON GAINING, FOR A CHANGE.

Miss D. sat opposite me today at the club luncheon. She's a little thing; wants to gain, she tells me.

The lunch wasn't overly heavy, but she ate less than one-half of it. Chocolate ice cream, cream for coffee. (They gave me my usual baked apple without the syrup. I adore chocolate ice cream, but it sets me going. You know, I don't care much for ice cream.)

"Why don't you eat your ice cream?" I asked Miss D., as I noticed she was leaving it.

"I don't care much for ice cream."

"Eat it anyway. You say you want to gain."

Now the advice I gave Miss D. I give to all of you who want to gain weight. When you think you gain weight, eat all you possibly can, just take three or four good mouthfuls. And remember that the mouthful must be of concentrated food, too. You know that overweighters have to shrink their stomachs. Well, you must do the reverse—stretch yours.

You have better take five or six smaller meals during the day instead of three large ones. In this way, you can take more food. This can be done by having a mid-morning, mid-afternoon and before-going-to-bed lunch.

You must have cream soups, instead of consommés, cream on your cereals, instead of milk, or half-cream and half-milk, your salads dressed with olive oil or dressings made with olive oil or butter, instead of lemon juice, which those of us take who have to fight overweight.

And you should add nuts to your diet. Nuts are rich in fattening weight for weight, than candy, on account of the oil in them. One-half ounce of nut meats is 100 calories, and a small ounce of almonds, cashews and they have a high grade of protein you need.

You mustn't try to increase your oils and fats suddenly, for these are apt to upset your digestion, but do increase them, gradually. In a little while the overweight must count his calories—Petersizing, my followers are calling it—instead of counting off 1,000 or so a day, you must count it on.

Don't forget that the vitamin B is sometimes known as the appetite vitamin. This vitamin is especially high in greens, cabbage, spinach, tomato, orange juice, yeast and wheat extracts. Be sure to get a liberal amount of this vitamin.

Remember you must eat whether you have an appetite or not. You'll develop an appetite.

You should have a physical examination to be sure that nothing but an underfeeding is causing your thinness.

Naturally there are other factors in gaining besides the diet; poison—permitted little misfits to worry—frequent rests, outdoor life, sufficient amount of sleep. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining will give you more. You can obtain it by observing the column rules.

As a result of weight gaining: Some years ago, I wrote an article on weight reduction for a magazine. I told the thin readers who happened to be reading it that they could gain by simply reversing the advice—that is, by adding 1,000 C. a day instead of subtracting it. Tell Them How You Lost Fat

This is to people who have lost fat to the modern scientific way. And who have gained new beauty and vitality by it. You are everywhere. Tell others the facts, as someone probably told you. Some two decades ago, scientific men discovered a cause of excess fat. They learned why some are thin and some are fat, regardless of food and exercise. They found a way to fight that cause by supplying the body some elements required for nutrition.

The name Marmola prescription tablets is now used for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. You can see the results wherever you look. Slenderness prevails. All ideas of beauty, all styles in dress, are based on slender figures.

Users of Marmola are not forced to abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. They simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. And new health and vitality comes with that reduction—in an amazing way.

The formula of Marmola comes in every box. Also the reasons for results. Thus you may know just why the good comes, and have no fear of harm.

People who are over-fat should start Marmola now. Order a box—before you forget. Learn all the facts about it, then watch results. When you gain your desired, tell your friends how to gain them. Don't wait any longer.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by druggists or by mail.

If you desire them, we will get them at once from our stock.

JUGGERNAUT

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS

Ether Row, a young nurse, having accompanied an invalid from the United States to Cannes for the winter, is about to return to New York when she sees an advertisement in the paper for a nurse and doctor's assistant and she decides to apply for the job in order to spend a little time in Cannes.

While waiting for an answer to her application to Dr. Sartorius, Ether treats herself to tea at the fashionable Restaurant des Ambassadeurs. She becomes interested in the conversation of a beautiful French woman and her escort, an Englishman, who sit at the next table, the returning to her hotel Ether finds a note from the doctor asking her to report in the morning.

The beautiful French woman of the restaurant comes to see Dr. Sartorius and Ether learns that she is Lady Clifford. A few days later her husband, Sir Charles Clifford, is stricken with typhoid fever and Dr. Sartorius gives up his practice and laboratory work to devote himself exclusively to Sir Charles. Ether, taken on the case as a nurse.

Roger Clifford, Sir Charles' only son, arrives in Cannes. Sir Charles tells his son that he has changed his will, to the extent of making him executor and trustee of the whole estate. Roger is attracted to Ether and invites her to dine and dance with him. They go to one of the fashionable restaurants in Cannes.

On returning to the house Roger comes upon his stepmother in the darkened drawing room with Arthur Holiday, who has been paying Lady Clifford some attention. Roger orders Holiday to leave the house.

The next day Dr. Sartorius takes the nurse to his wife that he has named his son executor of his estate in his will. Lady Clifford flies into a rage.

Shortly afterwards Roger complains of a headache, and his aunt, Miss Clifford, offers him one of her remedies. In trying to open the bottle Roger breaks it and cuts his hand. Ether is called in to bind the cut and in her haste she mistakes the doctor's hypodermic needle, which he has just used on Sir Charles. The doctor is unwarrantably angry with her over this carelessness. Two days later Sir Charles dies. Ether finds the needle, but instead of returning it to the doctor she has it analyzed. Lady Clifford disowns her, but before she leaves she gets the report from the chemist that the hypodermic needle contained typhoid germs. As she is about to warn Roger she is attacked and taken from the house unconscious. Some time later she awakens to find herself in Dr. Sartorius' laboratory. The doctor and Holiday come in and Ether feigns unconsciousness.

INSTALLMENT L.
FRESH HORROR.

Ether was so relieved that for the moment she almost forgot her own situation. The doctor continued thoughtfully:

"Roger is not sufficiently ill to be given anything without his consent, and as things are I don't press him too much; he might think it peculiar. . . no, it is no good; there has got to be some other way, something altogether different. Quickly, too. To postpone it now would be the greatest risk of all. . . It would have been very natural to have two members of a family fall ill with the same disease, but it can't be helped now. I happen to have some stuff here which will accomplish my purpose just as satisfactorily. That's why I came back this afternoon. I don't want to waste any time."

Ether's brief elation vanished like a bubble into the air. Some fresh horror was afoot. What was this man plotting now? He held her breath and listened painfully. She heard the doors of the oak armoire creak on their hinges as they swung open, then came the click of a glass jar. Holiday spoke a string of words of horror passed over. She heard as in a dream the stifled ejaculation of the young man.

"Tetanus. . . why, God in heaven, that's lockjaw!"

"Quite. The anti-toxin for it has been discovered, as a matter of fact. I have discovered it. However, that is not known to the public yet; it is very recent."

"There was the sound of a long drawn, shuddering gasp.

"But how do you mean to . . . won't it be dangerous?" Holiday faltered.

"As it happens, it is quite simple—a piece of luck. In fact, that is why I thought of tetanus. It seems Clifford has been going about for nearly a week with an open cut on his thumb. Half the time there's no bandage on it, although I've warned him more than once of the risk of infection. This morning his aunt persuaded him to let me disinfect it properly and bandage it. . . that is what I am going to do when I get back this evening."

There was a choking sound, as if Holiday were in danger of being sick. A chair scraped on the floor; there was the clink of glass.

"Here, pull yourself together; this will fix you. Sit here. . . I did not know you were so sensitive."

A gulp, followed by another shuddering sound. Then, weakly, with a sort of longing, "I don't know. . . I never liked the fellow. . . but this. . . Besides, it's damned risky; you can't pretend it isn't."

"Why? Think of it calmly. Who can prove how he got the infection? It's a thing that can never be proved, one way or the other. Every one knows he's laid himself open to it; that I have warned him. . . No, no. You will see. As for any other feeling you may have, you must settle with your own squeamishness; that is no concern of mine."

"I look upon things as they are, simply, without prejudice. With all life, human or otherwise, one creature preys upon another. One has to decide am I worth the sacrifice of another human being? I do not know that I should consider you worth it, my good friend, to be quite frank, but in my own case I venture to think that I am. Having made my mind clear on this point, I go ahead, merely observing certain precautions which will be necessary as long as the exceptional individual is so far in advance of the mass. I do not hesitate to declare that the work I can do for science is worth many hundreds—or shall I say thousands—of Cliffords, young and old. To think for one moment of putting my labors for the next 20 years in the balance against a couple of rotten manufacturers is ludicrous, that is all."

Somewhere far below a clock struck a single mellow clang. It was the same clock that had ticked so loudly that day when Ether first came to the house. She could see it now, its wide, white face crossed by its thin hands of decorated bronze.

"Sixthirty. I must be off to catch Clifford when he gets home. The imbecile has been out and about the town for two days with a temperature of over a hundred and one—searching everywhere for this cure. I believe he was going to the police today. That is another reason for not losing time. There is little likelihood of any one's coming here, but one never knows."

In the midst of her almost paralyzing fear a thrill shot through Ether when she heard that Roger was concerned over her disappearance. Then it had mattered to him when she didn't telephone! She also knew now how long she had been here. If only these two would go—something everywhere for this cure. I believe he was going to the police today. That is another reason for not losing time. There is little likelihood of any one's coming here, but one never knows."

"I'll just give her another shot before I leave. Then she'll be safe for some time. Where is the syringe?"

"Here, on the table."

A silence, then Sartorius' voice, reflectively.

"Humph, you didn't give her quite all of it, did you? There's a bit left."

That perhaps, explained her being conscious now. What an irony! To think that Holiday's inexperience should have brought about the agony of the last half hour! But for him she would have remained in peaceful oblivion, out of which she would have passed imperceptibly to her final sleep. These terrible moments were her last glimpses of life. In a few seconds would come utter blankness again, her last chance would be gone for saving Roger and herself. Should she make a struggle for it and die fighting? Or was it better to continue her supine pretense and quietly allow the needle to reduce her once more to a merciful torpor?

"Hand me that tumbler, will you?"

Water splashed from the tap into the basin. She could have burst out laughing at the precise habits of the man which remained with him now when they mattered not at all. She could almost see him was the needle, could follow every movement up to the setting down of the glass beside her on the little table de nuit.

It was coming now, the stab that marked the end of conscious life, the ruin of her one hope of rescuing the man she loved from a horrible death. It was all over now. . . She felt the doctor's breath stir her hair, she smelled again the hot odor of strong tobacco, was conscious of the wear of animal heat emanating from his body as he bent over her. Now. . . her lovely chestnut colored blouse must be peppered with holes, what a pity. . . not that it mattered now, how absurd to think of that.

A BUSINESS ASSET

RECENTLY we handled a sale by which a business concern acquired a good two-story brick and concrete building at a less than structural cost alone. It was a case of a buyer taking advantage of a sales opportunity. We have other such places to offer at a big saving. Consult us for information about the places we have to offer.
